ANNUAL SOCIAL ASSEMBLY

AT HER LINN STREET RESIDENCE

It Proved A Delightful Social Affair—Sumptuous Refreshments Were Served.

COMPLETE LIST OF THOSE PRESENT

The handsome Linn Street residence of Mrs. Mary A. Johnston was a scene of pleasure, gayety and mirth, Monday night. Bellefonte's society had turned out in full force, and in their best apparel, to enjoy Mrs. Johnston's annual social assembly of her lady friends, mark you, lady friends, for not a solitary member of the male persuasion was present, simply because they were not expected. These social gatherings at the hospitable home of Mrs. Johnston are looked forward to with pleasure from one year to the other, and for weeks before the event occurs, the services of dress makers are in demand, fashioning gowns suitable for the occasion. As a result, no more fashionable aggregation of the female sex, could have been found outside of some of the swell functions given among the "four hundred," of the nation's metropolis.

Although no gentlemen were invited, the NEWS reporter, by courtesy of the hostess, was admitted for a few minutes to view the bewildering sight. He beheld a brilliant assembly of superbly dressed ladies.

Some in gorgeous and striking apparel, whilst others were dressed richly but in subdued hues. There was the sedate and dignified matron sitting in an easy chair conversing with kindred spirits that had gathered around her, whilst but a few feet distant was the animated artless maid still in her teens, in unaffected simplicity enjoying herself to the full. It was a congenial gathering and each one made an effort to add to the pleasure of others.

If it were possible, we would like to describe some of the gowns, many of which were costly, and seen for the first time, others were equally rich, but have been described before in our columns, all were becoming, and in form, shape, style and mode were strictly up-to-date. Diamonds and precious stones were in profusion, and of countless value.

In addition to the guests from Bellefonte, there were quite a number of distinguished visitors from a distance.

The refreshments were sumptuous, and furnished by Ceader the caterer. Those who waited on the tables, were the following society buds who are personal friends of the hostess. They were tastily dressed, and looked exceedingly pretty, and were evidently well trained in their duties, for not a hitch nor blunder occurred. They were Misses Mame Butts, Louise Harper, Anna Sechler, Emma Montgomery and Henrietta Butts. The refreshments were delicious and comprised everything that is good, and in lavish abundance.

What added to the interest of the occasion was that it celebrated the birthday of the hostess. She having attained her —st year, (we have no authority to give figures) she kept this fact a profound secret, but some how it leaked out during the evening. As soon as it was known, she was overwhelmed with congratulations, and kindest wishes were expressed that her future life might be bright and happy, in which sentiment we most cordially join.

During the evening, Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt and Miss Henrietta Butts sang a beautiful duet, accompanied on the piano by Miss Louise Harper. Mrs. J. L. Kurtz recited a poem in her characteristic and impressive manner.

As the hands of the clock pointed to the eleventh figure, the most elderly ladies began to retire, and by mid-night, the scene had changed from one of life and animation, to rest and quiet, leaving the hostess to her own reflections, and to the consciousness of knowing that she had contributed a large measure of enjoyment, to those who had been there.

One lady informed the writer that in 1878, she was one of four brides, all of whom were present Monday night, who were entertained at a similar function at that time.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

[Reported by W. Harrison Walker, Esq.]

Court called Monday at 2 o'clock with Hon. John G. Love, P. J., on the bench and the other court officials in their respective places.

The first business of the session was the charge by the Court to the Grand Jury. Daniel Heckman, ex-county commissioner, was selected as foreman.

After a short charge by the Court the members composing the Grand Jury for the term retired to consider the several bills of indictment to be laid before them by the District Attorney.

White & Stine vs. J. A. Depew. Appeal. Plea. "non assumpsit." Settled.

The first case called for trial Monday afternoon was that of William Hazzard vs. H. H. Harshberger. This was an appeal from the judgment rendered by a justice of the peace. Plea, "non assumpsit and payment and set off."

From the facts in the case it appeared that the defendant had employed the plaintiff to cut and put away some hay for him on his farm in Boggs township in the summer of 1901. Plaintiff owed defendant eighty some dollars and defendant agreed to pay the claim or give him credit on account for $75 in case the plaintiff sold a certain property for him. The plaintiff testified that he, his two sons and two of his nephews worked seventeen days putting away the hay from a 16 acre field. The defendant alleged that too much time was taken in this work and stated that he would settle in case he was allowed for any goods he had furnished him while doing the work for him. This Hazzard refused to do. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Mrs. Odelle Mott the Court directed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty for the reason that the title to the property in dispute was not settled, and that the defendant took the same under an agreement which she had with the prosecutor, Mr. Milton R. Johnson.

There were several petty criminal cases disposed of Tuesday morning, as follows :

Com. vs. Daniel Gross, prosecutor William T. Taylor. Defendant convicted for larceny.

Com. vs. Peter Haverstick. Defendant found guilty of receiving stolen goods and larceny, and sentenced by the Court to pay a fine of $10, the costs of prosecution, and imprisonment in the jail of Centre county for a period of two months.

Com. vs. Charles Harrington, prosecutor Henry Stone. Defendant charged with assault and battery. Acquitted by the jury but placed one-half the costs on him and the other half on the prosecutor.

Com. vs. Charles Ammerman, prosecutor Harry Rote. Defendant entered a plea of guilty on the indictment and was sentenced by the Court to pay the costs of prosecution, to restore the property stolen or pay the value thereof, and to undergo imprisonment in the jail of Centre county for a period of two months.

—Since the new cigarette law has gone into effect many dealers in cigars and cigarettes in the state will ask the attorney general to give them an opinion upon the new anti-cigarette law recently signed by the governor. They want to know what constitutes a cigarette and claim that little cigars, even when put up in boxes the size of cigarette packages, are not cigarettes, basing their contention upon the fact that the United States revenue stamps on these boxes are cigar stamps, and not cigarette stamps.

DEATH OF C. M. BOWER, ESQ

Expired Suddenly While Teaching His Class in the Reformed Sunday School.

THE VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

Born in Haines Township and Was 54 Years of Age—A Prominent Attorney and Well Known Democrat.

A GREAT LOSS TO THE COMMUNITY

Whilst engaged in teaching his class in the Reformed Sunday school Sunday morning, C. M. Bower, Esq., was suddenly stricken with apoplexy, and in a short time thereafter his spirit took its flight.

Mr. Bower was in his usual health when he started to church, and after the service was over, took charge of his class which he had been teaching for many years. When about through the lesson, he complained of a severe pain in his head and sat down. It was then observed that he was very sick, and in a few moments became unconscious. Dr. R. G. H. Hayes, who was passing at the time, was called into the church, and Dr. George B. Klump, who had been summoned by telephone, also arrived. These gentlemen immediately realized that nothing in their power could save his life. Dr. Walter Stewart of Wilkesbarre, who is visiting in Bellefonte, was sent for, but the case was hopeless, and at one o'clock (just a half hour after the first attack) he expired. His son John arrived as his father breathed his last. Mrs. Bower was not present, having been confined to her bed for several weeks past, on account of sickness. She is well nigh broken hearted at the terrible and sudden affliction.

CALVIN M. BOWER.

The body was conveyed to his beautiful home on Linn Street, which he had left two hours before, in fine spirits, and apparently the best of health.

The news spread quickly, and a feeling of the deepest sorrow was manifest throughout the town, for the deceased was one of our best and most universally respected citizens.

Calvin M. Bower was born in Haines Township April 20, 1849, so at the time of his death was 54 years of age. His father, Jacob Bower, was a prosperous farmer living near Woodward. His mother was the daughter of Jacob Motz of Woodward, both parents being of the oldest and most prominent families in Centre County. His education was received at the common school, whence he was transferred to Aaronsburg Academy, then to Union College at New Berlin. After leaving the College in October 1871, he came to Bellefonte, and read law in the office of Orvis and Alexander. In December 1873 he was admitted to the Bar of Centre County, and at once accepted an interest in the firm, the title of which became Orvis, Alexander and Bower. When Judge Orvis was appointed to the bench, the remaining members of the firm continued under the firm name of Alexander and Bower. This partnership continued for a period of eleven years. When Judge Orvis retired from the bench; he organized a new firm consisting of Judge Orvis, Mr. Bower and Ellis L. Orvis. This partnership at once came into prominence and was recognized as one of the leading law firms of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Bower was married June 9th, 1874 to Miss Ella E. daughter of John Moyer, late of Aaronsburg, deceased. Mrs. Bower and one son, John J. Bower, the latter a practicing attorney, survive the deceased.

Mr. Bower's legal ability won for him a prominent position at the Bar. He was a judicious counselor, and sagacious advocate. He was upright and fearless in the practice of his profession. Indefatigable and persistent in his every effort to protect the interests of his clients, he at the same time was honorable and courteous to his adversaries. His honesty of purpose, or integrity, were never questioned, and no man was ever more faithful to a trust reposed in him. He was incorruptable one of God's noblest handiwork. An honest man.

Politically he was an ardent and uncompromising Democrat, decided in his convictions, but tolerant to those who differed with him. He was an astute politician, and acknowledged as a leader of his party. In 1875 he was chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and was frequently a delegate to state conventions. In 1880 he had the honor of a place on the electoral ticket. In 1894 he was nominated by his party for President Judge of the 49th judicial district, and although failing in the election, he ran 1529 votes ahead of his ticket. In 1895 he had the endorsement of many counties throughout the state for Superior Judge, but failed in the nomination by but few votes. In all his political career he was never known to do a dishonorable act to accomplish a purpose, but would rather suffer defeat than compromise his principles.

As a man and citizen, Mr. Bower occupied a proud position in this community. Always concerned in what was for the best interests of our town and people, generous to a fault, he was everybody's friend, and never was a worthy appeal made to him in vain. We could enumerate many instances of kindness and unselfish generosity of which we have personal knowledge.

He was prominently identified with the Masonic fraternity being a member of Bellefonte Lodge, the Chapter and Constans Commandery No. 33 Knights Templar.

In the death of Mr. Bower the town has sustained a loss which will long be felt.

He was a devoted and active member of the Reformed Church, and that church will suffer severely by his death. He was always greatly interested in Sunday school work, and at one time was County Chairman of the state Sabbath School Association. For many years he has been on the Board of Trustees of Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster, which institution conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts. As an official member of his church, he was earnest in its cause, and a prudent advisor. He was a christian man, and consistent in his manner of life. He not only professed christianity but practiced it. He was never too busy nor too tired to attend the services of the church or Sabbath school, but was always present unless providentially prevented.

The deceased was a man of domestic tastes, and spent his spare hours around the family circle. He was one of the kindest and most affectionate of husbands and fathers, and his home life was beautiful.

His hospitality was boundless, he was a most pleasant and companionable man, courteous, obliging, sincere and truthful. Such a man as one could go to when in need of a friend. Our community has suffered a severe loss, and his memory will be cherished by a large circle of friends and associates.

Long before the hour appointed Wednesday for the funeral hundreds of persons wended their way to the Reformed church, in order to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of one who was so universally respected.

Many were unable to gain an entrance to the building, which was crowded to its utmost, but patiently waited outside until the funeral cortege was ready to proceed to the cemetery.

The floral offerings were superb, and of great variety, some of the designs beautiful, the organ rail, was completely hidden from view by the plants and flowers contributed by loving friends.

At eleven o'clock the body was brought to the church, it was contained in a handsome casket, and borne by the members of his Sunday School class, accompanying it was a large number of clergymen both from town and a distance, the members of the Odd Fellows Lodge, and Bellefonte Lodge F & A. M of which he was a member.

After the remains had been placed in front of the altar, the choir rendered a hymn, after which Rev. Ambrose Schmidt pastor of the church took charge of the services.

Rev. H. R. Crow led the responsive exercises the 90th Psalm being used for the occasion. Rev. A. A. Black read the 15th chap 1st Cor. as the lesson. Rev. L. Kryden Evans D. D. of Potteville offered a prayer.

This was followed by addresses from the following, all of whom paid beautiful and well deserved tributes to the life and character of Mr. Bower both as a man and Christian : Prof. Joseph H. Dubbs, D. D., LL. D., of Franklin and Marshall college ; Rev. Ellis N.

A BRILLIANT FUNCTION

Installation of Officers of Constans Commandery.

HELD IN MASONIC TEMPLE

MANY GUESTS FROM A DISTANCE

The Masonic Temple was the scene of a brilliant social event Friday night. The occasion being the installation of officers of Constans Commandery No. 33 Knights Templar.

This being the first ceremony in the new temple, it was decided to make it public, so far as to have the lady friends of the Sir Knights present, various committees had been appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

At eight o'clock, those who were so fortunate as to have received invitations, commenced to arrive, and half an hour later the large asylum was comfortably filled with a handsome, dressed assembly of ladies, young and old.

As the hands of the clock pointed to a quarter of nine, the Sir Knights, resplendent in gold and silver uniforms, with their striking and becoming chapeaus filed into the room, and took their proper positions.

The choir, composed of Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes Pianist, Misses Henrietta Butts and Bessie Dorworth, Hard P. Harris and Philip Waddle, sang "Evening hymn", by Berwald, after which Sir R. H. Wharton, led in the devotional exercises, then the choir sang "Gloria Patri".

Em. Sir Knight Wilson I. Fleming Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania proceeded to install Sir J. S. McCargar as Eminent Commander, at the conclusion of the charge, the choir sang "Gloria in Excelsis". Sir Fleming then administered the vow to the remaining officers, and invested them with the Jewel of their office.

Em. Sir Wilbur F. Reeder, who officiated as Marshall, made the proclamation, announcing to the four points of the compass, that the officers of Constans Commandery No. 33 Knights Templar had been legally installed. The ceremony closed with a song by the choir entitled "The Day is past and Over."

At about half past ten every one repaired to the Banquet Hall and sat down to a feast of good things served by Ceaders the caterer. After all had partaken of the substantial and dainty provision set before, them the time until midnight was given to sociality.

The evening was pleasantly spent, and the time passed all too quickly for those present. During the evening Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot Bishop of the diocese who preached in the Episcopal church and celebrated confirmation services last night, entered the room, accompanied by Rev. George Israel Brown. Of course every one was anxious to meet this distinguished churchman, and he received an ovation with which he could not but feel flattered and by his pleasant cordial manner delighted all who were there.

Some of those present from a distance were Dr. M. E. Wadsworth and wife, Dr. William Frear and wife, Prof. George C. Watson and wife, Prof. M. S. McDowell and wife and Prof. George C. Butz and wife of State College; Mrs. Luther Roberts, of Pasadena, Cal.; Dr. Thos. Tobin and wife, of Tyrone and Mrs. D. J. Meyer of Centre Hall.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with a profusion of plants and flowers.

We understand this event will be celebrated annually hereafter in the same manner.

SHORT AND PITHY.

Age that brings not wisdom and discretion is a deplorable condition.

Mr. Bryan on good roads is more lucid than Mr. Bryan on fiat money.

They are not mistaken who affirm that the studious boy of to-day is likely to be the successful man of to-morrow.

Fidelity to the interests of those who place their confidence in a friend is the test of character. Treachery always defeats itself.

The boy who makes his brain a storehouse of useful information will be the man who is prepared to come to the front in times of emergency.

The politician who plants himself in the path of righteousness may succeed for a time, but his eventual discomfiture is a certainty of the future.

The chances are that the Baron Rothschild who was fined $2 in Paris for violating the law regulating the speed of automobiles had no trouble in raising the money.

Japan is small, but she's a mighty spunky nation and she has a navy that promises to make things very interesting for Russia in case the two countries ever come to blows.

There is a growing impression that the governor will presently approve the Grady-Salus libel bill and that the supreme court will eventually declare it unconstitutional.

The individual who has nothing to his credit except the fact that he has vegetated for a century in this world, is not the most successful of men. Life is something higher and better than mere existence.

Most men find occasion to bitterly regret some impulsive and injudicious actions of their lives; but no man ever yet regretted the doing of a righteous or an unselfish act.

When there is nothing to be said in favor of any aspirant for place but that he is his party's candidate, the chances are that the public good will always be subserved by his defeat.

Wherever there is division of authority there is confusion. In every successful business there is one supreme head whose word is law and from whose decisions there is no appeal.

China has braced herself and declines to entertain the Russian propositions concerning Manchuria. But the puzzle is, What are those propositions? Russia says most of the reports sent out from Pekin are false.

The two Philadelphia school directors who were convicted of extorting money from school teachers, and the man who acted as their agent in the onslaughts on the salaries of the teachers, were Monday sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100 each.

The newspaper of the twentieth century has its faults, but it likewise has sterling virtues and every week accomplishes much lasting good. It is the guardian of the liberties of the people and the terror of wrong-doers. It does not propose to permit itself to be robbed of its high heritage.

Good roads would mightily help the farmer, increasing the value of his real estate and facilitating the taking of his crops to market, and yet some of our friends in the rural districts are not enough or prejudiced enough to suspect that the agitation for good roads is the result of a plot [illegible] wheelmen of the country.

It is generally understood that in the present discussion concerning the problem of Manchuria Germany stand by the side of Russia. Singularly enough, France is on the same side. Great Britain, Japan and the United States are thought to be lined up on the other side. It is a very pretty situation from the standpoint of the experienced diplomat.

Criticism of Andrew Carnegie's action in bestowing more than double as much money to erect a temple of peace at The Hague as he gave for the conduct of Booker T. Washington's Tuskegee institute is in very bad taste. In the first place Mr. Carnegie has an absolute right to dispose of his surplus millions according to his own convictions of expediency. In the second place, outsiders have no business to undertake to interfere.

A writer in the International Quarterly who claims to speak from inside knowledge, declares that the talk about the impending collapse of the Austro-Hungarian empire is all nonsense. He says that the empire will remain intact for many years to come and that the death of the present venerable and unversally beloved emperor will not make the slightest difference in its destiny. And yet he does not seem to bring forward any very conclusive arguments.

HAY TO RESIST RUSSIA

THERE WILL BE NO JOINT NOTE

Will Insist Upon Territorial Integrity of China and the Open Door For Commerce—Germany Will Not Interfere.

Washington, April 27.—President Roosevelt has telegraphed Secretary Hay to resist by every diplomatic means any departure by Russia from her pledges to us respecting Manchuria and Secretary Hay has promptly begun to act under those instructions. He will proceed in accordance with the traditional policy of the United States against alliances with foreign powers, and, therefore, the protest is being made independently. It is with the full knowledge of Great Britain and Japan, whose interests are the same, and who will take similar action. There will be no joint note, but the action will have practically the same effect.

There is no expectation of war, for the matter will be settled by diplomacy.

Although Germany and France are supposed to sympathize with Russia, it is not anticipated that they will actively support her. China will receive, through our minister at Peking, Mr. Conger, a note from Secretary Hay, recalling Russia's pledges with respect to Manchuria, and advising the Chinese government to resist Russian demands.

Russia will be asked for a statement of intentions and will be made to understand clearly the purpose of our government to insist upon the territorial integrity of China and the open door for commerce. Our government will also insist upon having the commercial treaty with China which has been under negotiation completed.

It is believed that while Russia may not evacuate Manchuria or give up the control she has, she may modify her demands upon China and measureably meet the wishes of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. A more hopeful feeling respecting the matter is distinctly apparent. But it is not entirely due to the note the Russian ambassador sent to Secretary Hay, which expressed simply his personal opinion—that nothing Russia will do in Manchuria will be inimical to the interests of the United States. Our government wants a statement of assuring character directly from the Russian government.

Our ambassador at St. Petersburg, Mr. McCormick, under instructions already cabled him, will formally inquire of the Russian government the meaning of its demands upon China with regard to Manchuria in such a way as to draw out the declaration of intentions desired.

There is every reason to believe that Baron von Sternburg, the German representative here, in his interview with Secretary Hay, conveyed the intimation that Germany would not interfere one way or the other.

The tone of press advices from uropean capitals has done much to depress officials here who have labored so long to preserve the integrity of China. It begins to appear to them that Manchuria is hopelessly lost to China and the best that can be done now is to procure from Russia a binding promise that the powers will not be entirely deprived of the right to exploit Manchuria commercially.

NEGROES COMPLIMENT WHITES

Live With Former Slave Holders in True Friendship and Prosperity.

Richmond, Va., April 27.—Accompanying an invitation to attend the service at the First African Baptist church and for a minister to assist in the service, a letter was sent to Dr. Robert C. Ogden, president of the Educational Conference, which is likely to change the opinion of those who think that the white people of the south have any idea of "closing the door of hope" to the negro. The letter, which is signed by Rev. W. H. Burwell and Rev. W. T. Johnson, both colored, is in part as follows:

"The negroes of Richmond have always been able to live in peace and harmony with the white race. The same kindly feeling which caused in the veins of the "mammy" and the body-servant of by-gone days exists to-day. We have lived here and prospered, and thousands of us rejoice in the possession of 'our own vine and fig tree,' with none to make us afraid. There is no feeling of antagonism between the white citizen and the colored citizen of Richmond. One's trouble is the other's trouble; and what benefits one benefits the other."

Sincerity is the basis of all true friendship. Without sincerity it is like a ship without ballast.

Code for Schools.

The matter of providing better regulations for the conduct of the Johnstown public schools being up to the school board of the flood city, they at a recent meeting unanimously declared as follows. which will bear reading and perhaps be useful in other towns:

All teachers in the employ of the board of controllers are expected and required to maintain good order in their schools and to secure prompt and implicit obedience to all school regulations, to the end that class instruction may be effectively given, and the pupils trained in habits of right conduct and proper self control.

Offenses against the authority of the teacher and the good order of the school should be promptly corrected by the use of such means and methods as appeal to the reason and the moral instincts of children, and at all times with due sympathy and in moderation on the part of the teacher. Corporal punishment shall not be resorted to until it is clearly evident that milder correctives are of no further avail. The right of a teacher to inflict such punishment is founded upon the necessity of the case and not upon statute. Therefore the proper use of the rattan in extreme cases of disobedience or gross misconduct, while not directly authorized, is deemed justifiable as an effective means to maintain proper school control.

Parents should earnestly co-operate with teachers in all measures of discipline calculated to keep their children in right relations to the school, and to this end should never find fault with the teacher in the presence of the children. If in their judgment, however, the punishment inflicted was too severe or out of all proportion to the offense committed, they should first confer with the teacher in charge. If not satisfied, then with the principal of the school. If further action still seems justifiable and determined upon, them the case shall be at once reported to the president of the board of controllers, who shall immediately appoint a special committee of three controllers, who, with the city superintendent, shall at once investigate the matter complained of, and if deemed advisable, shall provide for a formal hearing of the parties concerned, such hearing to be given without expense to parents or teachers. If after due investigation, the committee approve of the action of the teacher or principal, all expense incurred by such teacher or principal in a subsequent action against him be assumed by the board, who shall reserve the right to direct the employment of competent counsel to take charge of the case. The action of the committee shall be reported to the board at their next regular meeting and entered on the minutes. If the committee upon investigation, fail to justify fully the action of the teacher or principal against whom a complaint has been brought, then the board shall be convened in special session for the final consideration and disposition of the case brought before them; provided, however, the committee shall have power to make such temporary adjustment of the case as the best interests of the schools may require, subject to the action of the board at a called or regular meeting.

"As You Like It."

The custom of late has been to make a limited tour each spring of the leading cities in some one of Shakespeare's plays. In view of this fact Mr. Ernest Shipman the popular exploiter of well known successes, has arranged a tour of thirty performances of Shakespeare's enchanting comedy "As You Like It" presenting Miss Alberta Gallatin as "Rosalind" and a large and efficient cast of well known Shakespearean players. Of all the master efforts of our Immortal Bard, none are so well suited to a spring production as "As You Like It." Just as the trees are donning nature's robes of green and all her myriad verdure is blossoming forth in expectant maturity, lending its sweet perfume as a life giving breath to the delightful character which adorns this exhilarating comedy. An effort is being made by some of our leading citizens to secure this attraction for a night, at least at the opera house. It is to be hoped our enterprising manager Mr. W. H. Garman will be successful in the arrangements.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed to give satisfaction at Green's Pharmacy.

RACE RIOT IN ILLINOIS

MANY SHOT BY ANGRY FARMERS

Attempted Assault on White Girl Led to General Onslaught on Negroes, Who Escaped to Woods, Carrying Their Wounded With Them.

Thebes, Ills., April 27.—An unknown negro, aged about 17 years, was lynched by a mob of angry farmers near the village of Santa Fe for attempting to assault the 10-year-old daughter of Farmer Branson Davis, and this was followed by a general onslaught upon a colony of negroes living in tents who were engaged in bridge construction work. The tents were burned and many negroes were shot, but so far as known none was killed. Hundreds of shots were exchanged, but no whites were hurt.

Branson Davis lives one-half mile east of Santa Fe, a small village near here. While his 10-year-old daughter was in the barn the negro accosted her. She ran, but he seized her and her screams brought her mother to the rescue. The negro fled. Officers were notified and were soon in pursuit. News of the assault speedily spread among the neighboring farmers, and resulted in an angry mob starting in search of the assailant. The negro meanwhile had been captured by officers and was being brought to Santa Fe when the mob of farmers was met. fight followed, during which the farmers secured the negro. He confessed to the crime, but begged for mercy. Without a word the mob started with the prisoner toward the new bridge being constructed across the Mississippi, where he was hanged to an oak tree without ceremony or delay. After the body had dangled in the air a few moments it was riddled with bullets.

The officers endeavored to disperse the mob, but their efforts were useless. A rush was made for a colony of several hundred negroes, employed on bridge construction work and living in tents near the bridge. The negroes saw the mob coming and opened fire. A fusilade followed and the whites fired with effect, as many of the negroes were shot down. None of the mob was injured and it is not known how seriously the negroes were wounded. The negroes escaped to the woods, taking their wounded with them, and were followed by the mob. Extra police were sworn in and the village is under guard. Excitement is intense.

Negro Rapist Lynched.

Long View, Tex., April 27—News has reached here of the lynching at Carthage of a negro named John Hensely, who, it is alleged, criminally assaulted a 4-year-old white girl of that place last Friday night. The negro was captured by the officers of Panola county and placed in jail, but was released on bond. He left for the country, where he was captured by a mob from Carthage and hanged in the public square, where his body was found suspended to a telephone pole. The mob was quiet, and the people of Carthage knew nothing of the affair until the body was found.

Fatally Hurt Looping-the-Loop.

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—H. R. Cruzen, understudy to Diavolo, the bicyclist of the Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' circus, was fatally injured while looping the loop beneath the great canvas. His wheel deviated from the black line marked on the apparatus on which the rider must concentrate his gaze. During a practice ride, and when ten feet from the downward swoop, preparatory to leaving the contrivance, he plunged through the air, alighting on his head.

Jersey Masons Seek Information.

Utica, N. Y., April 27.—Hon. W. Holt Apgar, grand master of the Masonic Fraternity, and nine other grand officers, composing a committee from the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, have visited the Masonic Home in this city to gather information for use in rebuilding and extending the home at Burlington, N. J.

Counterfeiters Arrested in Germany.

Berlin, pril 27.—Seven counterfeiters have been arrested in a body at Posen. The men counterfeited various coins, including those of the United States. They are said to have had American connections. Direct inquiry to the court at Posen for information and details concerning this American connection brought the reply that the court could not answer the query for several days, pending examination of the prisoners.

There is no use growing excited when a man calls you a liar. If you are one, you knew it before he told you, and if you are not you know he is.—Baltimore American.

DREADFUL ATTACK OF WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. Ellen Harlison, of 300 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes as follows: "Our two children had a severe attack of whooping cough, one of them in the paroxysm of coughing would often faint and bleed at the nose. We tried everything we heard of without getting relief. We then called in our family doctor who prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar. With the very first dose they began to improve and we feel that it has saved their lives." Refuse substitutes. C. M. Parrish.

Jerome vs. Crime.

Frankly and fearlessly Pearson's Magazine tells the story of how District Attorney Jerome has undertaken, single-handed, the desperate task of ridding New York City of its vice and crime. This article is being published in three parts. The first installment, which appeared in the April Pearson's has resulted in a $10,000 libel suit being brought against the magazine, and the publishers announce that, in spite of their disinclination to appear as defendant in libel suits, the story will continue to be told in the same frank and open manner which marked the April installment. Inside facts and secrets concerning the true condition of affairs in New York City come from Judge Jerome himself, and the boldness and earnestness of their presentation by an able writer, readily convinces the reader that the purpose of the article is to encourage respectable citizenship throughout the United States, and to reveal the conditions of vice which are gnawing at the vitals of our largest and greatest cities. The installment published in the May Pearson's tells numerous incidents of a personal nature.

The Methodist White Sale and Supper

The ladies of the Methodist church replenished their exchequer to a great extent, from the proceeds of their fair and supper, given in the basement of their church, Thursday evening.

The display of articles manufactured by the deft fingers of the members of the Aid Society were fine, and the workmanship was of the best, and we are glad their labor was appreciated by a generous public, for when business closed there was but little remaining on hand.

The supper was well patronized, and there could certainly be no complaint of quality, quantity and price. As usual, the service was of the best.

The members of this church are but following a custom long in vogue by holding these festivals, and almost every church in town resort to similar methods to raise money to pay expenses connected with the worship of God.

For our part, and speaking only for ourselves, we do not exactly approve of this means to support the church, as it is hard labor for a few persons, and what is realized, comes principally from the members of the several congregations who engage in the business.

Many ministers are opposed to church fairs, and for good reason. They believe that anything given to promote the christian religion, should be a free will offering, and they try to educate their members, to give to the church cheerfully, according as they have been blessed. If this principal could be inculcated into their hearts and minds, there would be no occasion to resort to these worldly, and often questionable means of raising the money that is required. If one half the effort was put forth in trying to bring persons into the church, greater results would follow.

The Honor Goes to Philipsburg.

Another Centre county boy comes to the front from Philipsburg and gets the appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. His name is John Knapper, Jr., who made the best record at a recent competition examination with four other young men for the position. Dresser has named him as the fortunate young man and now he is getting ready to take the course. Geo. Woodward of Penfield, has been named as first alternate; Julian A. Chase of Clearfield, second alternate, and Donald Woodward, of the same place, third alternate.

Young Knapper is to be congratulated on his success, which, as the record shows, depended on merit, and Philipsburg has reason to be proud of sending a boy to Annapolis while they have a student at West Point by the name of L. C. Brinton.

Value of Good Roads.

Good roads will add millions of dollars to the wealth of the state. They will increase the value of property in every nook and corner of the commonwealth. What looks like an enormous expenditure will in short be taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another. Nothing will be lost, for every dollar expended will come back to the taxpayers bearing good interest with it. No one can deny that better roads are a necessity. Then why not provide them? They cannot be had for nothing, but must be built at an expenditure of labor and money which it is folly to longer seek to evade.

What is a Cigarette?

Many dealers in cigars and cigarettes in the state will ask the attorney general to give them an opinion upon the new anti-cigarette law recently signed by the governor. They want to know what constitutes a cigarette and claim that little cigars, even when put up in boxes the size of cigarette packages, are not cigarettes, basing their contention upon the fact that the United States revenue stamps on these boxes are cegar stamps, and not cigarette stamps.

A CHATTANOOGA DRUGGIST' STATEMENT.

Robt. J. Miller, Proprietor of the Read House Drug Store of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes: "There is more merit in Foley's Honey and Tar than in any other cough syrup. The calls for it multiply wonderfully and we sell more of it than all other cough syrups combined." C. M. Parrish.

PRESIDENT DELIGHTED

Mr. Roosevelt's Visit to Yellowstone Park Greatly Benefits Him.

SOME VERY AMUSING INCIDENTS

Was Thrown From a Ski Headforemost Into Snow, With Feet In the Air—Thousands of Elk and Deer Encountered.

Cinnabar, Mont., April 24. — President Roosevelt's vacation is at an end. He greeted the members of his party and a large number of people at the mammoth Hot Springs hotel in Yellowstone Park and resumed his tour. The president is the picture of health and the time he has spent in the park has been of great benefit to him. He speaks in enthusiastic terms of the park and the good time he has had in it.

The president and all those who accompanied him on his tour of the park are delighted with the trip. No accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the party, and for the most part they were favored with delightful weather. John Burroughs, who accompanied the president most of the time, was also greatly benefitted and his face is an bronzed as that of the president.

The president spent most of the time studying the habits of the different species of game that abound in the park. He would lie for hours near a herd of elk or mountain goats and frequently walk eight or ten miles to observe them. He also studied bird life with Mr. Burroughs and showed himself particularly well posted on this subject. Mr. Burroughs was able to show him but one bird with which he was not acquainted, the soltaire.

While fortunately there were no accidents a number of amusing incidents occurred. One of them happened during the president's visit to Geyserland, a few days ago. The president and Mr. Burroughs were on skis and started to race down hill. The snow was soft and Mr. Burroughs, who had never used a ski before, soon found himself with his head in the snow and his feet in the air. He had hardly struggled to his feet when the president repeated the performance. Neither one was hurt, but Major Pitcher secured excellent photographs of the catastrophe, which he ha spromised to have developed.

On another occasion the president had just commenced to shave himself when Mr. Burroughs discovered a flock of mountain goats jumping down a steep hill. He called the president's attention to the sight and Mr. Roosevelt came running out without hat, coat or vest and with his face covered with lather.

The party was fortunate in running across game. Thousands of elk and deer and quite a number of mountain sheep and goats were encountered and their habits were closely studied.

While no accident occurred the president had a number of narrow escapes. One day, in company with Major Pitcher, he fired a new revolver at a tree. The weapon was defective and the empty shell flew back and struck the president on the cheek, drawing blood. If it had struck a little higher up it would have injured, if not blinded one eye.

The longest walk enjoyed by Mr. Roosevelt was taken on Easter Sunday, when he spent the entire day climbing mountains and walking the trail. He covered fully 20 miles.

This Will Interest Many.

F. W. Parkhurst, the Boston publisher, says that if anyone afflicted with rheumatism in any form, or neuralgia, will send their address to him at No. 4, Winthrop Building, Boston, Mass., he will direct them to a perfect cure. He has nothing to sell or give; only tells you how he was cured after years of search for relief. Hundreds have tested it with success.

A WOMAN'S RISK

As a trapeze performer is greater than a man's. She must have a man's courage and a man's muscle to succeed. But she must also work under conditions of which a man knows nothing. Many an accident to women acrobats must be attributed to the sudden weakness to which all women are subject at certain times.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription heals the womanly diseases which cause weakness. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"With pleasure I write to-day in praise of Dr. Pierce and his medicines," says Mrs. Mary Conway, of Appleton, Lawrence Co., Tenn. "Was troubled with female disease; the back of my head hurt me so I could not lie in bed and I would have to sit up, and then I would have such pains from my waist down I could scarcely raise up. My feet and hands would feel almost like ice. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I can sleep well all night. Could hardly drag around before I took your medicine, and now can do my housework and help my husband in the field. Words cannot express the thanks I owe to Dr. Pierce."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing more than a thousand large pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 21 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LIBEL BILL PROTEST

ARGUMENTS FOR AND AGAINST

Harrisburg, Pa., April 22. — Every important newspaper in Pennsylvania was represented at the hearing on the Grady-Salus libel bill by Governor Pennypacker in the hall of the house of representatives. Attorney General Carson sat with the governor throughout the hearing, but neither indicated what would be the governor's action on the measure. The governor said the bill was a very important one, and he was anxious to hear both sides, and he suggested that two representatives from each side be heard in order to save time. He also suggested that the opponents of the bill be heard first.

The opening speech was made by Charles Emory Smith, of the Philadelphia Press, who was presented by Thomas V. Cooper, of the Media American. At the outset of Mr. Smith's address Governor Pennypacker took exception to his use of the word "insolently" and suggested that it would be well for the speakers to omit strong adjectives. Mr. Smith accepted the suggestion, saying at the time that he spoke strongly because he felt strongly.

During Mr. Smith's argument that the bill did not include weekly newspapers the governor interrupted him to say that he thought it applied to all newspapers. Mr. Smith replied that he believed weekly newspapers were excluded from the provisions of the measure. Governor Pennypacker again interrupted Mr. Smith before he had proceeded much further to argue that the bill clearly applies to all newspapers, weekly or dailies.

Alexander Simpson, Jr., of Philadelphia, in urging the governor to sign the bill, said the highest court of Pennsylvania has declared that there is a necessity for a change in the laws governing newspapers and read from an opinion of the supreme court in the case of ex-Mayor Smith against the Philadelphia Times. He read several other opinions by the supreme court to prove his contention that the liberty of the press should be restrained. This bill, he declared, is designed to hinder the abuse of the license of the press by a very small minority of the newspapers of the state.

Richard C. Dale, of Philadelphia, also spoke in favor of the bill. He answered Mr. Smith's argument that the bill was loosely and carelessly drawn and endeavored to prove by quoting its various sections that it was on the contrary a measure very well put together and capable, in his opinion, of withstanding any attack that may be made upon it if it becomes a law.

Thomas V. Cooper made the closing argument against the bill, claiming the constitution had been violated in passing the bill, and that it did not properly receive the endorsement of both houses of the legislature.

When Mr. Cooper concluded the governor said that if any one of the speakers selected by the newspaper owners was a lawyer who desired to answer the legal arguments presented by Mr. Simpson and Mr. Dale he would be pleased to hear him.

Cyrus G. Derr, attorney for the Reading Eagle, was thereupon introduced. Mr. Derr dwelt upon the injudiciousness and unconstitutionality of the proposed law. He says a new feature is introduced into the libel law, by which negligence is made equivalent to malice and this feature he deemed most unwise. He argued that the bill discriminates against the newspapers of Pennsylvania in favor of those printed in other states and circulated in this state.

The governor concluded the hearing by the announcement: "I am obliged to you gentlemen for the help you have given me."

Mr. Smith then handed to the governor over one hundred letters from editors of newspapers in Pennsylvania who were unable to be present at the hearing, urging him to veto the bill.

A JAPANESE GARDEN.

Follow This Recipe and You Will Have One Complete.

The classical garden, like a sonnet, is governed by special laws of harmony and rhythm. It must have its five hills, its ten trees and its fourteen stones. You can get along without the hills, and you can get along without the trees, but you cannot get along without stones. Indeed the perfect type of the flat garden is nothing but an archipelago of rocks in a sea of white pebbles. The stones must be the foundation; the rest are mere accessories. Speaking stones are what is wanted—stones that suggest moods and passions—for the Japanese recognize that there are sermons in stones. Each stone has its name and relative place in the composition. There is the guardian stone in the center and opposite it the belleview stone. Across the cascade is the moonshade stone and so on.

The hills unmask each other by rule. The principal hill has its two foothills, its spur hills, its distant peak, seen through a valley, and the low hill that must stand on the opposite side of the lake.

As there are a principal stone and a principal hill, so must there be a "principal tree," the shojin boku, around which the Tree of Perfection, the Tree of Evil, the Tree of the Setting Sun, the Tree of Science and the Tree of Solitude bow their lesser heads.

These are the essentials. Now, add one pond, one island, two stone lanterns, three bridges and mix thoroughly, garnish with lotus and serve with goldfish and mandarin duck. There is a recipe for a Japanese garden.—William Verbeck in Country Life.

A SMALL LIBRARY.

The Principle of Selection on Which It Should Be Based.

I think that a limit of three books will usually allow a very fair representation of a novelist. For instance, Thackeray is very fairly represented by "Vanity Fair," "Henry Esmond" and "Pendennis" and Dickens by "Pickwick," "David Copperfield" and "Martin Chuzzlewit." Walter Scott would not suffer by one choosing "Ivanhoe," "The Bride of Lammermoor" and "The Heart of Midlothian." "Tom Jones" would suffice for Fielding and "Pride and Prejudice" for Jane Austen. "The Mill on the Floss" for George Eliot and "The Ordeal of Richard Feverel" for George Meredith. Taking only the great outstanding figures, Tolstoi need only be present with "Anna Karenina" and "War and Peace" and Emile Zola with, say, "Drink" and "The Dream." "The Three Musketeers" and "The Count of Monte-Christo" would suffice for Alexandre Dumas and "Les Miserables" and "Notre Dame de Paris" for Victor Hugo. It is harder to say of the vast mountain range of Balzac on what particular peaks our choice should fall, but probably here again the most popular books will prove the most typical—"Le Pere Goriot," "Eugenie Grandet" and "The Ass' Skin."

I am not, it must be understood, making a list of books "without which," as the booksellers say, "no gentleman's library is complete." I am only taking a few standard authors for the purpose of illustrating a principle of selection which must perforce operate in a small library. If our library does not or cannot contain the best books, it must certainly contain some of them, and, however idiosyncratic of its owner, it must bear the stamp of a general distinction.—Richard Le Gallienne in Success.

Foretells Death by Sense of Smell.

There's an old superstition that a howling dog in front of the house of an ill person portends death. One prominent physician believes absolutely in it. This physician has a wonderfully acute sense of smell. Frequently, he says, he can foretell the coming of death within forty-eight hours of a patient's demise. Within two days of death, he says, a peculiar earthy odor becomes noticeable about a person about to die. He tells of one case where he became aware of the peculiar odor while talking to an apparently healthy man. That night the man dropped dead of heart disease.

The physician is far from attributing the peculiar manifestation to other than physiological reasons. His own sense of smell is abnormally acute.—New York Press.

Hotel Bills In England.

The author of "Portugal Old and New" finds fault with English hotel keepers for using a printed form of bill on which the plain requirements of a simple traveler are lost amid a multitude of items. The result is that when a guest pays for a day's and a night's lodging he is positively almost ashamed at finding due registry of his having wanted neither liquors nor stationery nor warm baths nor douche baths nor shower baths nor pots of jam nor the hotel hairdresser and is apt to reflect what a poor shuffling impostor of a guest he is to have had so few requirements.

FREAKS OF WEATHER

FOGS, WINDS AND STORMS OF VARIED PECULIARITIES.

The "Williwau" That Spends Itself Upon Tierra del Fuego—The "Fohn" Wind of Switzerland and the Ferocious "Purga" of Siberia.

In mountainous countries, such as Scotland, a fog usually forms at the top of a hill and works downward. The cold mountain top, cooling a warm current of wet air, renders its moisture visible, and this cold fog, being of lower temperature than the air below and therefore heavier, drops gradually to the valley. Colorado, however, can show an exception to this general rule. There in winter the frost on the low ground is so intense that a fog often forms in the valleys and works slowly up the mountain side. This is known by the Indian name of "pogonip."

Peru has hundreds of square miles along its coast of rainless country. In this tract rain is never known to fall from one century's end to another. Yet the region is not entirely barren of vegetation. Some parts of it, indeed, are comparatively fertile. This is due to the extraordinary fogs known as "garuas." They prevail every night from May to October after a summer that is sultry and extend up to a level of 1,200 feet above the sea. Above 1,200 feet rain falls.

The "calina" of Spain is a fog we may be grateful that we do not have. It is a dry, yellow mist which sometimes hides the sun for days at a time over vast tracts of country and makes the sky look as though covered with leaden gauze.

Another peculiar freak of weather we must be thankful to escape is the "williwau." This form of storm is confined to that faroff island Tierra del Fuego. The coast is indented with deep fiords crowned with high mountains. Down from their gorges drops the "williwau." A low, hoarse muttering is heard in the distance. Suddenly, without the least preliminary puff, a fearful blast of wind drops upon the sea. The water is not raised into waves, but driven into fine dust. Fortunately the shock lasts but ten or twelve seconds, and calm follows at once, for no vessel could stand such a wind for even half a minute. During the coming and going of a "williwau" the barometer may be watched to drop a tenth of an inch or more and rise again at once.

Similar in name if not in nature is the "willy willy" with which Kalgoorlie gold diggers are acquainted, to their cost. "Dust devils," some people call them. Half a dozen may be seen dancing harmlessly along over the desert when suddenly one will dive into the city and fill all the shop windows in Hannan street with dust and sand, blinding every passerby. The "willy willy" is a thief of the worst kind. It will steal the washing from a line or the roof from a shed. In some parts of the country wire ropes are anchored over the roofs of huts to save them from the attacks of these odd little whirlwinds.

Most people have heard of the "fohn" wind of Switzerland, that warm, dry gale which comes over the mountains and in spring will melt two feet of snow in a day. Its cause is most peculiar. The "fohn" comes from the south. As it strikes the Alps it is wet, like most gales which have crossed the sea, but the south face of the mountains receives its rain, and as it crosses the summits it is dry. The moving air current is also compressed and therefore dynamically heated. As it falls into the northern valleys in a cataract of air it gains heat at the rate of half a degree for every 100 feet of descent. It usually blows for two or three days, causing great suffering by its dry heat and oppression. While it lasts the temperature is about thirty degrees above the average. The "chinook" of British Columbia and the western side of the United States is very similar to the "fohn."

England has adopted the American word "blizzard" for a gale with snow. But the blizzard, however, must yield to the ferocious "buran" of the central steppes of Asia and the "purga" of northern Siberia. To be caught in gales such as these means death in a very few minutes, however warmly clad, for the very air becomes unbreathable, so filled is it with spikes of ice drift.

"Khamsin" is the hot wind from the desert which blows out of the Sahara upon Egypt. The word means fifty, from the idea that it lasts for fifty days. The "khamsin" is terribly hot and dry and sometimes brings pestilence with it.

Red snow we have all heard of. It is caused by a microscopic infusorial growth and only occurs in snow that has lain unmelted for a long time. In Spitzbergen recently green snow has been noted tinted by similar organisms.

"Gold dust" snow has often been seen, but only in spring. At one time it was a mystery how the surface of new fallen snow came to be strewn with a shining yellow deposit. Now it is known to be due to the pollen of pine trees.—Pearson's Weekly.

ILL NATURED BRUTES.

As we have racers and cart horses, so the Arabs and the natives of northeastern Africa have breeds of camels severally adapted for riding and for carrying burdens. It is to the fast riding and racing camels that the name dromedary alone applies, so that this term—the Greek equivalent of "racer"—indicates merely a breed and not a particular species.

All the camels of Arabia and Africa, as well as those employed in India, belong to the single humped species, which is a lightly built and long limbed animal in comparison with its double humped relative, the Bactrian camel of central Asia. Not improbably some of the herds of the latter species which are found in the neighborhood of the Gobi desert are the descendants of aboriginally wild animals, but the Arabian camel is quite unknown in a wild state, and we are even ignorant of its birthplace, although it is quite likely that this may have been north Africa or the neighborhood of the Arabian desert. For traversing desert tracts camels are absolutely indispensable. Their broad cushionlike hoofs proclaim them essentially animals of the desert, and a camel is absolutely helpless on a wet and slippery inclined road.

As if conscious that man cannot do without them, camels are some of the worst tempered and ill natured brutes in creation, and, save for their endurance and the heavy loads they can carry, no one has a good word to say in their favor. If a camel can bite a mounted traveler whom he may be passing in a narrow road, he will never fail to avail himself of the opportunity, and the bubbling noise made by a "mast" camel at night will destroy the rest of an entire camp.—London Illustrated News.

Why Wullie Wept.

From Scotland comes the following story concerning an enthusiastic curler who invariably wore at the game a cap with comfortable warm ear flaps: Arriving one day without his headgear, he was greeted by a friend:

"Eh, Wullie, mon, whar's yere auld lug warmer?"

To which the other replied lugubriously:

"I hae na' worn it seence ma accident."

"Accident? A'm sorry tae hear o't. What was it, then?"

"A mon offered me a dram, an' wi' they dashed flaps I didna hear him."

"Ma conscience!" said the other.—London Globe.

KING EDWARD TO VISIT PARIS

There Is Much Speculation As to Its Political Significance.

Paris, April 27.—Elaborate arrangements are being carried out rapidly for the welcoming here of King Edward. They are on a scale of truly royal splendor. The fetes will follow those held at the time of the visit to Paris of the Czar of Russia, and will include a number of events affording opportunities.

Aside from its spectacular features the visit of King Edward is leading to a wide range of speculation in the matter of its political significance. French officials state freely that this visit marks a long step towards the re-establishment of the cordial relations between France and Great Britain which were strained by reason of the Fashoda incident and the Boer war. They say also that it is an evidence that the foreign policy of Great Britain hereafter will be sympathetic towards Portugal, Italy and France, the three countries visited by King Edward. Hints are also given that the visit will lead to a better state of feeling between Russia and Great Britain, and that later King Edward possibly may visit St. Petersburg.

Reliance a Powerful Craft.

Reliance was taken out for another spin lasting two hours yesterday, and on the whole she again proved a stiff and powerful craft. She was very fast in beating and reaching. Under sail she left her anchorage shortly after 2 o'clock and beat down to the lower bay in a light southeast wind. When she came abeam of Musselbed Light she caught a slant of wind and reached over to Prudence Island, making long and short legs almost down to Gould Island.

EDITORIAL.

OUR FAREWELL.

With this issue our relations with the REPUBLICAN will cease and the control of the paper pass into the hands of Earle C. Tuten.

This change has been brought about through an amicable arrangement entered into with the administrators of the estate of Hon. Daniel H. Hastings, deceased.

We desire to thank the patrons for their kind support during our administration, and realize our failure to keep the paper up to the high standard to which we aspired.

With the change of management, however, we predict great improvements, and commend Mr. Tuten to your kindest consideration. He is a man of ability, a forceful writer and a thorough Republican. These qualities presage an era of push and enterprise in the future management of this journal,

To the editorial fraternity we bid adieu with regret. Our relations have been most pleasant, and we acknowledge with gratitude their kind and cordial support and encouragement. To them we entertain none but the most earnest wishes for their continued prosperity.

JOHN C. MILLER.

Fred High Didn't.

For the first time in the history of their organization, the members of Bellefonte's W. C. T. U., were put to rout, and had to surrender, and there were no conditions to the terms, it was a complete lay down on their part, but the situation was accepted gracefully.

These ladies can wage war and do so, successfully, against intemperance and attendent evils, but when they run up against a combination of circumstances as they did Friday, they wisely concluded that "discretion is the better part of valor."

For the past few weeks, they have been advertising the appearance in our town of Fred High the wonderful elocutionist and humorous entertainer, who was to appear in Petrikin Hall Friday night. As this was the last attraction of the season, a special effort was made to have a large audience, to this end they subsidized the Press, placarded the town and engaged the services of experts to make a house to house canvass to dispose of tickets.

Everything looked rosy until within a few days, when one by one some other entertainment was announced for the same evening, first, was a company of players in the Opera House, then there was an inspection of Co. B, in the Armory, it so happened that Bishop Talbot found it convenient to be here at that time to preach in the Episcopal church, and last, but not least, was the installation of officers in Constans Commandry. This was too much for the ladies, they saw disaster and defeat stareing them in the face, so after consultation, decided to postpone their entertainment till a later date. They accordingly arranged with Mr. High to return at a future time which he promised to do.

That was the reason it was so dark and quiet at Petrikin Hall Friday night. It has not been decided when Mr. High will appear but it will probably be in about three weeks.

Those holding tickets can hold them a little longer, they will be good when the show does come along.

We would advise, when they make the date, that a Wednesday evening be selected, that night there is nothing going on but prayer meetings in the several churches, and as but few attend these gathering it would not keep many from the Hall.

A Generous Gift.

Last Sunday the Sabbath School at Fairview, just below town, made an effort to raise enough money to pay a note of over $50 coming due this week. This note was for part of the cost of building the beautiful little chapel erected a couple of years ago, through the efforts of the people living in that vicinity, aided by a few citizens of Bellefonte.

Fortunately for the school Mr. C. F. York, of Warriors' Mark, was present, and before the subscription paper was passed around he handed the superintendent twenty-five dollars in crisp greenbacks as his contribution. The generosity of Mr. York fairly paralyzed the members of the school, but after they had somewhat recovered a paper was circulated and the balance necessary was quickly raised.

—Governor Pennypacker is working with commendable industry to dispose of the measures left in his hands by the general assembly. He has still over two weeks in which to consider and determine the fate of those remaining in his hands.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

—The Huntingdon News has increased in size to a seven column paper. The News is a progressive sheet and finely edited Newspapers. It is a valuable exchange and a welcome visitor to our sanctum.

—The Pennsylvania legislature has just passed five acts to improve the condition of the anthracite miners. One established a home for the aged and crippled mines, to be maintained jointly by operators and workmen; another prohibits the employment of persons in or around the miners more than eight hours a day; and another makes a ton of 2,240 pounds the basis of pay for miners in place of the present bulk of measurement.

—Thirty-nine years ago the father of Miss Minnie Peterson, of Scipio, Ind., died of smallpox. Miss Peterson died of smallpox Thursday, having taken the disease just two weeks after she opened an old trunk containing her father's clothes for the first time since his death. Medical experts have taken great interest in the case. The state health board is preparing a scientific statement of the case.

—An Arkansas printer, in making up the forms in a hurry, the other day, got a marriage notice and a grocer's advertisement mixed up so as to read as follows: John Brown and Ida Gray were united in the holy sauerkraut by the quart or barrel. Mr. Brown is a well known young codfish at 10 cents per pound, while the bride, Miss Gray, has some nice pig's feet which will be sold cheaper than any in town,

—Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Tate entertained a small company of friends Wednesday night at their handsome apartments in Petrikin Hall, to meet Mrs. Harmer mother of Mrs. Tate and Dr. E. M. Sullivan both of whom reside in Philadelphia and have been visitors at the hospitable home for several days. Dr. Sullivan is a practicing dentist of the Quaker City and very prominent in his profession, his service being in constant demand by the wealthier citizens of that city.

—Work will soon begin on the Odd Fellows' Orphanage, near Snydertown, Northumberland county, to accommodate 240 children in place of the present one, which accommodates but sixty-six, and which is to be built of brick and stone and is to cost about $30,000. The grounds are already secured, the plans have been adopted and it is expected to complete the building within the year. At present there are sixty-six children in the home. All are well taken care of, the best sanitary conditions are maintained, the freedom from disease is remarkable and deaths among the little ones are very few.

A REAL BOY WONDER

THE PHENOMENAL EARLY CAREER OF WILLIAM PITT.

Although Sickly and Delicate, This English Lad Was Intellectually One of the Most Remarkable Youths the World Has Ever Known.

One of the most remarkable boys the world ever saw was William Pitt. He astonished folk with his learning at the age of seven. He became prime minister of England when he was twenty-four.

He was a sickly boy, but he took all the out of door exercise his delicate frame could bear and was as eager to study as most boys are to play. He would not let his weak body stop his work, and he was reading ancient history at an age when most children are reading stories written in words of one syllable.

His father was the great Earl of Chatham, and the boy was brought into contact with all the great men of the time in England. When he was thirteen years old he wrote a tragedy which he called "Laurentine, King of Clarinium."

At this age, too, he was able to read Greek and Latin almost as well as he could English. He also was well informed on the politics of the day and on a variety of subjects about which only men of learning are supposed to know anything.

At fourteen he was able to take the works of Thucydides, written in Greek, and read page after page, turning it into excellent English as he read, and this off hand translation of his is said to have been almost without a flaw.

His father spoke of him as "eager Mr. William, the counselor, the philosopher." At the age of fourteen he entered the great University of Cambridge in England and at once, in spite of his youth, took a high place among the students at that celebrated place of learning.

When he went to Cambridge, the boy was in such feeble health that he had to be accompanied by a nurse, and all through his course there he was in so poor a condition, physically, that it was doubted if he ever would be able to finish the course.

But hard study seemed to agree with him, and when he was graduated, at the age of seventeen, he was much stronger than when he entered the university.

At an age when most boys are preparing to enter college, or, if they are very clever, have just become freshmen, young Pitt won the degree of master of arts from one of the greatest universities in the world and began the study of law.

At twenty-one he was admitted to the bar, and the same year was elected a member of parliament, to become prime minister three years later.

While he was yet a law student and only eighteen years old he attracted the attention of prominent men by his clear views on the questions of government, which then were perplexing the rulers of England. The boy was invited everywhere, and men holding the most important offices listened to his advice and asked his opinions.

His friends wanted him to go into parliament when he was twenty and all predicted for him a brilliant career. It was curious to see this delicate stripling, a boy in looks and years, meeting the great and wise men of the country as an equal and conversing on even terms with the most learned scholars of the day.

Young Pitt used to like to listen to the debates in the British parliament, and Mr. Fox, the great statesman, meeting him once after a debate, was astonished at the manner in which the boy criticised the eminent men who had spoken and pointed out where they could have made their argument stronger.

One of the hardest works to understand that ever were written is a book called "Cassandra," written by a man named Lycophronis. It is written in Greek. A learned man placed the book in the hands of young Pitt when the boy was sixteen years old, and he read it at first sight, translating into English as he read and explaining it in a manner which made the learned man declare that had he not seen it he "would have believed it to be beyond the power of human intellect."

When Pitt was sixteen, his father declared that he would be a great statesman and was the hope of the country. Other folks soon became of his father's way of thinking, and that is why they put him into parliament when he was so young and made him prime minister so soon after.

He fulfilled all that was expected of him and ruled England during thirteen of the most eventful years of her history.—Detroit Free Press.

JOHN C. MILLER.

DEATH OF C. M. BOWER ESQ

Kremer, D. D., of Harrisburg; Rev. J. S. De Long, D. D., of Bethlehem; Rev. Thomas L. Bickel, of Philadelphia; Rev. H. C. Holloway, D. D., of Bellefonte, and Rev. Ambrose Schmidt. The services closed with a prayer by Rev. D. M. Wolf, D. D., of Spring Mills.

The services throughout were profoundly solemn, each one realizing the sadness of the occasion; perhaps the most impressive portion being the singing by Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt, Miss Louise Harper, Philip Waddle and A. Lukenbach of that beautiful hymn, written by Fanny Crosby, entitled "Saved by Grace," the first line of which is "Some time the silver cord will break." It seemed to touch a responsive chord in many hearts and strong men were not ashamed to be seen wiping away tears they were unable to restrain, the words and sentiment of the hymn being so appropriate and so touchingly rendered.

The funeral then proceeded to the cemetery where the burial services of the church were performed by Revs. Ambrose Schmidt, T. L. Bickel and Howard Obold. When the benediction had been pronounced the members of Bellefonte Masonic Lodge gathered around the grave and proceeded with the burial services of that order. Col. W. F. Reeder as Master; Rev. R. H. Wharton, Grand Chaplain; W. Harrison Walker, S. W.; M. S. McDowell, J. W.; and thus surrounded by his brethren, all that was mortal of their late brother and friend was consigned to the tomb.

Death of Reuben Page.

On Thursday evening the peaceful angel of death entered the Page home at Linden Hall and called hence, the spirit life of the venerable Reuben Page. He had been a great sufferer for a number of years, having received wounds during the Civil war which has caused him many days of pain. When the call for troops was made in 1860 he was among the first to volunteer, and served faithfully as a member of Co. G, of the 148 P. V. He fought in 20 battles that the regiment was engaged in and at the battle of Gettysburg received wounds which ultimately caused his death.

Had Reuben Page lived until the 20 day of June, he would have been 80 years old. He was a consistant christian gentleman, and a life long member of the United Evangelical church. He was born in Juniata county and has always been engaged in farming.

He leaves to mourn, his beloved wife Mary, and seven children, namely Mrs. David Barlett, of Bellefonte, Mrs. W. T. Noll and Mrs. David Harshbarger, of Jeanette, Mrs. William Stover, of Boalsburg; John, of Rebersburg; George; of Blanchard; and Joshua at home.

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the United Evangelical church at Linden Hall was crowded with friends who had gathered to pay a last loving tribute to all that was mortal of Reuben Page. As he was an old soldier, over one hundred of his comrades were present and with tear-stained faces listened to the beautiful words spoken of his life and character as a citizen and soldier by Rev. George Shultz, his pastor, who had charge of the services. His text was taken from Corinthians xv: 55; "O death where is thy sting, O grave where is thy victory." He was assisted by Rev. Thomas W. Perks, of the United Brethren church of Bellefonte.

Six of his old comrades and friends were the casket-bearers and were as follows: Anthony Knepp, Wm. Close, Henry Houtz, John Coble, Michael Barnhart and John Hook.

BASE BALL SATURDAY,

Academy Defeats the All Stars Score 11 to 6.

The Academy nine and the "All Stars" composed of such crack players as Otto, Twitmire, Heinle, Gephart and Hasey Taylor played a very interesting game of ball at the glass works meadow on Saturday afternoon which resulted in favor of the Academy by the score of 11-6. The battery work of Twitmire and Otto for the Stars and McClafferty and McCandless for the Academy was excellent.

The features of the game were the clever short stop work of R. Thomas and a running catch in the field by Louder in making which he fell forward but still retained possession of the ball.

The teams played as follows:

Academy.	position.	All Stars.
McCandless	catcher	(Capt) Otto
McClafferty	pitcher	Twitmire
VanDeVenter	1st base	Rees
Ferguson (Capt)	2nd base	Taylor

Umpire J. M. Laurie, Time 1 hour 30 minutes.

Almost a Blaze.

Tuesday morning about ten o'clock one of the young ladies connected with the millinery department of Katz & Co. attempted to light the gas in the work room. A spark fell against the large curtain enclosing that portion of the store and immediately it was in a blaze. For a short time there was consternation and excitement, for things presented a serious aspect. Fortunately, by the cool-headedness and quick action of Miss Wilson hats, bonnets and fixtures were quickly removed from danger of the flames. The entire force of the store combined soon had the fire under control, and in a little while work was going on as usual.

The loss sustained does not amount to much, but it is a marvel that more damage was not done.

Bride's Riding Whip Became a Large Tree.

The editor of the Philipsburg Ledger attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Shoemaker in Lock Haven last week and in making mention of that fact says:

Mrs. Shoemaker was the last surviving member of the family of nine children born to James and Priscilla Martin Williams who came a bride and groom to Bellefonte, from Northumberland county in the early days of the last century and built a home where the Bush House now stands. The journey was made on horseback and a switch from a willow tree which shaded the Martin home at Northumberland was the bride's whip. Carefully planted along the banks of Spring creek where the new home was made, the switch became the progenitor of the lovely fringe of willows which for a generation shaded the site of the big hotel.

Bar Takes Action on the Death of Calvin M. Bower.

The regular April term of court convened in the Court House Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, with Hon. John G. Love, P. J., on the bench, and Prothonotary Gardner and Register Archey in their respective places.

The morning session was taken up in the presentation of motions and petitions by the several members of the bar, the returns of the constables to the Court of Quarter Sessions, and the following minute in reference to Hon. Calvin M. Bower's death, which is given in full.

After the transaction of the routine business of the court this morning, the Hon. A. O. Furst arose and said:

"MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT:

It is my painful duty to make public announcement to the Court of the sudden and unexpected death of the Hon. Calvin M. Bower, for many years an honored member of this bar, and who on yesterday, about noon, in the Reformed church in this borough, was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and in a few minutes died. All the circumstances leading up to his death are so inscrutable to the finite mind, the conditions surrounding him at the moment of his death, were of such a serious character, that it is almost impossible at this moment of time to describe them. At the place of all others on earth that he perhaps loved the most, in the Sabbath School connected with the Reformed church, in which he was an earnest and consistent member, perhaps the leading member, active in all its duties, it seemed that such was a fit place to close his earthly career. The attack came upon him suddenly and without warning. Whether or not in his lifetime he himself had premonitory symptoms of an hereditary disposition to apoplexy, I know not, but yet a remark made by his son at the side of his father after he was stricken indicated to my mind that it is highly probable that sooner or later he expected the termination of his life just in the manner in which it occurred. It seems that some five years ago at Tyrone he had warning that indicated to him that disposition in his constitution. It was possibly a very slight attack of apoplexy and up until yesterday there had been no repetition of it, but when this attack came it came with such violence that in a few moments life was extinct. I saw him breathe his last. To me it did not seem like death. There was nothing about it that indicated struggle or pain—simply the attack and in a few moments life became extinct.

"These decrees of Providence to my mind are inscrutable. I presented to this Court a petition but a few months ago signed by William E. Gray; I presented the same petition this morning for the Court's last decree on which was written the name of Calvin M. Bower, and which has just been signed by your Honor.

"This is not the period of time to speak at length of the deceased; opportunity will doubtless be given at some future meeting of the bar for this, yet, it seems to me that in the forum where he was so active, in the place where he discharged so many duties as a practitioner, that for a time the business of the court should cease and that it is proper and right we should pause right in the midst of the opening of the courts of this county and think upon our deceased brother and his life's work. I think it better to defer further expression of sentiment until a formal meeting of this bar is held, and having made public announcement to the Court I now ask the Court, out of respect for his memory, and bowing in recognition of the Providence of Almighty God, which has so afflicted us within the last year, that this court do now adjourn."

BY THE COURT:

"I do not know when any intelligence has so shocked the community as the announcement of Mr. Bower's death. The fact is that it hangs over me like a pall. Deceased was very active in the practice of his profession, rarely absent from the sessions of the court, and when not actively engaged in the practice of his profession here was nearly always in his office. It seems hard to realize that he will never go in and out amongst us again. It is a forcible illustration of how brittle the thread upon which life is suspended. Out of consideration for his memory, and his honorable standing at this bar, the court will now adjourn till two o'clock this afternoon."

A meeting of the Bar Association was immediately called upon the adjournment of the court. Whereupon it was unanimously resolved;

That a committee of five members of the bar be appointed to draw suitable resolutions in memory of C. M. Bower, which committee shall report at a meeting of the bar to be held on Wednesday at nine A. M. The court appointed upon said committee J. C. Meyer; Hon. A. O. Furst; John Blanchard; Hon. J. H. Wetzel and Wilbur F. Reeder.

It was also unanimously resolved that a committee of three be appointed to make any other arrangements not included within the scope of the powers and duties of the committee already appointed. Upon this committee the court appointed W. Harrison Walker; E. R. Chambers and Clement Dale,

Upon motion the Bar Association adjourned until Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

Preliminary Inspection.

There was quite a large attendance of spectators at the armory Friday evening to witness the preliminary inspection of Co B. It was certainly a very pretty sight from the stand point of an onlooker. Capt. Taylor and Lieutenants Garbrick and Gettig put the boys through all the manoeuvres known to military art and the boys acquitted themselves with credit.

Lieut. Col. John A. Bare, of Huntingdon, Lieut. Colonel of the 5th Regiment, was present and inspected the company. At the close he congratulated Capt. Taylor and his Lieutenants on the excellent shape in which he found the company, and said, that he had no doubt that after the regular inspection which takes place next Thursday night it would rank at the head of the 5th Regiment.

On next Thursday evening the regular inspection will take place and the inspecting officer will be Major Jefferies, inspector of the 2nd Brigade N. G. P.

There will also be present on that occasion Capt. Stuart of the 8th U. S. Regulars who will inspect Co. B. All the companies of the National Guard will be inspected at their armories by regular United States army officers during the next month and it is probable that before the annual encampment this year the entire guard will be equipped with Krag-Jorgeusen rifles and the same accoutrements as the United States regular army.

This will be done under the provisions of the militia bill passed at the last congress, which makes the National Guard of the various states practically part of the standing army and under the supervision of the war department. On discussing the subject an official of the adjutant general's office at Washington this week said.

"When the Pennsylvania guard is in camp this summer we may make another inspection, and for five years there will be an annual inspection of all the guards by officers from the war department. Under the terms of the bill we have five years in which to gradually work up to the proper degree of efficiency, and at the end of that period the National guard of the state is supposed to be on the same plan as the regular army. Consequently, our officers do not want to see the state troops now as they will appear on dress parade, but they want to see them at their ordinary drill so that defects may be marked, not for criticism, but that improvement may be made."

Episcopal Archdeaconry Meeting.

Rev. George Israel Brown, of St. John's Episcopal church, went to Wellsboro Monday to attend the spring session of archdeaconry of Williamsport which convenes there this week. About twenty clergymen are in attendance The session opens with an evening service at which Rev. F. Daughters, of Shamokin, will preach.

The archdeaconry of Williamsport is one of the four sub-divisions of this, the large Episcopal diocese of Central Pennsylvania. It is made up of twenty-one different parishes and includes a part of Bradford county and ten other entire counties besides Tioga, as follows: Potter, Lycoming, Clinton, Sullivan, Centre, Union, Northumberland, Montour, Columbia and Snyder.

During Tuesday forenoon the clergy held a business meeting at the rectory and on Tuesday afternoon they gather there for literary exercises, which included the reading of an essay and a critique of some theological work and the presentation of a scriptural exegesis.

At 5 p. m. on Tuesday the ladies of St. Paul's church will gave a dinner at which were entertained the vestrymen of the church and the visiting clergy.

I. & O. C.

For several days past we have observed several of the little girls who attend the Academy wearing streamers of blue and gold ribbon pinned to their frocks. We asked one lass the significance of the badge. She informed us it meant they belonged to a society which met once a week called the I. & O. C. We could not prevail upon her to tell the meaning of the letters, although it is not hard to guess. Our idea is, that they mean Industrious and Obedient Children, and we are glad to know that in their early years they realize the importance of industry and obedience, that when they look upon their badge it will remind them of their duty, to improve every opportunity, and obey their parents. The officers and members are: Virginia Dale, president; Marion Lingle, vice president; Grace Cook, secretary; Lucretia Williams, treasurer; Ellen Hayes, Ann Lyon, Ethel Dale, Rebecca Valentine. Emily Bassett, Mildred Locke, Uberta Alexander.

Rev. C. T. Aikens Has an Upset.

Rev. C. T. Aikens is an unfortunate individual. A couple of weeks ago his team of fiery steeds ran away, doing no further damage, however, than scaring the preacher and shaking up his carriage.

Wednesday he had another experience which terminated somewhat differently. He was driving from State College to Pine Grove accompanied by his wife, and Miss Emma Aikens, of Bellefonte. When near Louck's Crossing a hand-car came along which frightened the horses, causing them to turn, upsetting the carriage and landing the occupants along the side of the road. The horses started back to the College at a 1-50 gait. Somewhere on the way they struck a spike-harrow and the result was, badly used-up horses. Dr. Fry's services were rerequired to get their legs (the horses') into shape.

Mr. Aikens and party reached Pine Grove considerably the worse for their acrobatic performance, but with a liberal use of arnica and cotton no serious results will follow.

We congratulate our clerical friend and the ladies who were with him that we are spared the sorrow of chronicling a more heart-rending account of this accident.

A Narrow Escape.

Friday afternoon Mrs. John Spangler and Mrs. Charley Stoner and the latter's two little children, all of Tusseyville, narrowly escaped a serious accident. The ladies and children were driving in a buggy, and on reaching the railroad crossing at the Centre Hall station did not notice the approach of the freight train from the east, and escaped a collision only by the bravery of Harvey Glass, a grocery agent of Sunbury, who caught the horse the women were driving as the animal was making a sharp turn to keep out of the engine's way. But for the act of Mr. Glass the occupants would have been thrown from the vehicle, and possibly on the railroad track. The engineer did all in his power to stop his train, using the airbrakes to their full extent.

Might Have Been More Serious.

As one of the Potter-Hoy hardware wagons was being driven across the P. R. R. tracks at the passenger station Saturday the horse caught its hoof between the rail and plank, throwing it down. A crowd gathered immediately and after considerable effort, in which an iron bar was necessary, the foot was released. We do not know how seriously it was hurt, our only wonder is that the leg was not broken. Someone informs us that this is the third horse that has met with a similar mishap within a week. The proper person should be informed of the dangerous condition of this crossing in order that it may be made safe.

National Guardsmen Must Stand Trial.

Privates John Berger, Frank Crumbling and John Sweeds, of Williamsport, members of Company G, Twelfth Regiment, N. G. P., are in jail and will be given a trial by Lieutenant Colonel Barber, of Lewisburg, on a charge of non-attendance at drills and contempt of court. They had been court-martialed three weeks ago on the first named charge and failed on April 4 to be present at the armory to stand trial. The second charge was then preferred and on Thursday they were all placed in jail.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease.
It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition.
It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs and disturbs the stomach.
It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Curtis Johnson, of 583 Bishop street, freight truckman, says: "I had backache and lameness across my loins for a year or more. At times the lameness was so acute I could lift nothing and if I stooped it was impossible for me to straighten. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidneys the whole time and I had a dull tired feeling which took away all my ambition. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. Potts Green's drug store and they soon cured me from the whole combination of troubles and they did it quickly and thoroughly. My wife was also suffering from a tired, grinding backache and she used Doan'e Kidney Pills and they invigorated her generally. She now speaks of them as highly as I do. We never came across any remedy which surpassed Doan's Kidney Pills."

SUCCESSFUL SMUGGLER.

The Schemes He Worked to Deceive the Customs Officials.

"There is money in smuggling," said the retired dealer in precious stones as he leaned back, "but it is dangerous to carry on the business, as possible suspects are carefully watched and, if necessary, traced till they are finally caught. However, I knew one man who pursued the trade of diamond smuggling for fifteen years and was able to retire to respectability. He was buyer for one of the large business houses in New York, and his business sent him to Europe two, three and sometimes four times a year. Every time he returned he had with him from $10,000 to $20,000 worth of gems which he did not declare.

"His trick was perfect simplicity combined with ingenious boldness. His hair was scanty, and at the top of his head he had a most delightful little bald spot. Customs officers as they came and went all knew him, and as they knew him he had a most pronounced wen where his other acquaintances saw a bald spot. That wen was a work of art, made of wax and gum, and it contained two or three big stones that would have been a find for the men on the pier.

"The good cigar that he had just lit and allowed to go out held a few more, and sewed in the handle of the grip that he carelessly turned over to the inspection of the officers were the rest of them. He never varied the trick, and he never lost. Each trip was worth a couple of hundred dollars to him and a great many hundred more to those who employed him. Now, that man considered himself strictly honest. He would not steal a cent from an individual, yet he schemed and plotted to rob the government."—New York Press.

Digging For Kauri Gum.

The ordinary method of searching for kauri gum in New Zealand is by first feeling for it a little below the surface with a steel pointed piece of iron called a "gum spear" and then digging it out with a spade. A skillful and industrious digger can earn as much as £3 to £4 per week at the work, and even children can earn a few shillings a day; but, as the gumfields offer a refuge for all sorts and conditions of men, many who are old and infirm resort to them, and so the average earnings are reduced to £1 15s. or £2 a week. The gum is used principally in the manufacture of varnish, but it is also found useful for many other purposes, such as dressing "glazed" calicoes, etc.—London Times.

They were suburbanites, and they sat at breakfast, when a letter was handed to the mother, which she read with rapidly increasing consternation. "How unspeakably dreadful!" she exclaimed. Courage In Elephants.

An elephant with a good mahout gives perhaps the best instance of disciplined courage—courage, that is, which persists in the face of knowledge and disinclination—to be seen in the animal world. They will submit day after day to have painful wounds dressed in obedience to their keeper and meet danger in obedience to orders, though their intelligence is sufficient to understand the peril and far too great for man to trick them into a belief that it is nonexistent. No animal will face danger more readily at man's bidding.—London Spectator.

A SWEET BREATH.

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like. Kodol digests what you eat and makes the tomach sweet. Parrish,s Drug Store.

TWO OBLIGING MEN.

Each Was the Victim In a Street Car Fare Transaction.

It was in a Boston street car. When the car stopped at a crossing, a lady got up and went to the door. As she rose there was the chink of a coin on the floor, but before it occurred to any one to stop her she was out of the car and across the street. Two ladies who had sat next to her looked with anxious indifference on the floor. One of them leaned slightly forward, but said nothing. Just as the conductor was reaching for the bell rope a young man spied the coin and dashed out of the car. He caught the lady who had left the car, handed her the coin, ran back, caught the step of the car as the motors began to sing in crescendo and sat down breathless. One of the two ladies opposite him leaned forward and said coldly, "Young man, what did you do with the nickel I dropped?" The passengers tittered. An old man at the other end of the car turned to his neighbor. "That reminds me," he said, "of something that happened to my wife years ago.

"It was before the days of conductors, when we used to drop our nickels into a slot, and they ran down a groove to the box behind the driver.

"My wife had started out with a little change and one of those troublesome five dollar goldpieces which used to be more commonly in circulation than they are now. Her eyes were not good, and so she was nervous about her goldpiece and had it on her mind all the way downtown.

"When she took a car for home, she met a friend and grew interested in conversation with her. She put her coin in the slot absentmindedly. The driver turned as it struck the box. You remember the coin fell into a glass compartment first, and then the driver pushed a lever which sent it into the strong box below.

"As my wife heard the click of the lever she thought of her five dollar goldpiece. She looked in her purse. Sure enough, it was gone. She went forward and spoke to the driver. He said he hadn't looked very carefully, but he thought there were only three nickels in the glass receptacle when he pushed the lever.

"My wife insisted. The driver said if she would ride to the end of the line the cashier at the station would open the box. This meant a journey of two miles beyond our street, and my wife was in a hurry.

"An old gentleman who sat by the door said he was going to the end of the line and offered to give her $4.95 cents and get the goldpiece at the station. My wife thanked him and took the money. When she got home, she found the five dollar goldpiece in the lining of her purse.

"Next day I went to the station. The cashier said an old gentleman had made him open the box. There was no goldpiece. The old gentleman had left in a rage, refusing to give his name. He said he had been swindled and did not want to be known for a fool.

"We advertised in the papers, but we never heard from him."—Youth's Companion.

Animal Worship Among the Hebrews

The Old Testament records show, notwithstanding the various revisions through which these venerable books have passed, many indications of animal worship among the Israelites, which must have lasted for ages before the prohibition inculcated in the second line of the Decalogue was formulated. At a comparatively late date "Jehovah was worshiped under the popular symbol of a bull, while the twelve oxen upholding the laver in Solomon's temple, as well as the horns adorning the altar, were drawn from the prevalent bull worship."

Modern research has also proved that the cherubim were represented in the form of winged bulls. M. Lenormant in his famous book on the "Beginnings of History" says that during the time of the kings and prophets "most assuredly the cherubim, as there described, are animals."

A Fighting Bishop.

On one occasion Bishop Selwyn was going down the river Waikato with a Maori when the latter, who was very lazy, left off paddling the canoe, at the same time muttering that if Selwyn were not a bishop he would—well, "go for him." In a moment the bishop told the man to turn the canoe ashore, where, stripping himself of everything episcopal, he said, pointing to his robes, etc: "The bishop lies there; the man is here. I am quite ready; come on." The Maori did not "come on," however, but quietly resumed his work without another murmur.—London Tit-Bits.

New York Sheriffs.

The reason why the sheriff of New York cannot be elected to two successive terms is this: It is the sheriff's duty to carry out the process of courts against official delinquents during trial and after conviction. Should a sheriff endeavor forcibly to hold over for a second time after having been defeated for re-election he would be the instrument of the court's process against himself, a paradoxical position which the law avoids by making him ineligible for re-election.

A RAZOR'S EDGE.

Minute Teeth, Like Those of a Saw, Make Its Keenness.

The edge of a razor consists of innumerable points or "teeth," which if the razor is of good material follow each other throughout its whole length with great order and clearness. The unbroken regularity of these minute "teeth" goes to make up the blade's excessive keenness. The edge acts upon the beard not so much by the direct application of weight or force as it does by a slight "seesaw" movement, which causes the successive "teeth" to act rapidly on one certain part of the hairy growth. The best razors, according to the microscopists, have the teeth of their edges set as regularly as those of a perfectly set saw.

This explains the magic effect of hot water on the razor's blade—the act of dipping it thoroughly cleansing the teeth of any greasy or dirty substance with which they may have been clogged. Barbers often claim that razors "get tired" of shaving and that they will be all right after awhile if permitted to take a rest. When in this "tired" condition a microscopic examination of the edge shows that constant stropping by the same person has caused the teeth or fibers of the edge to all arrange themselves in one direction. A month of disuse causes these fine particles to rearrange themselves so that they again present the heterogeneous saw toothed edge. After this little recreation each particle of the fine edge is up and ready to support his fellow, and it again takes some time to spoil the grain of the blade.

Verdi Was Right.

When Verdi was putting the last touches to "Il Trovatore," he was visited in his study by a privileged friend, who was one of the ablest living musicians and critics. He was permitted to examine the score and run over the "Anvil Chorus" on the pianoforte. "What do you think of that?" asked Verdi. "Trash!" responded the connoisseur. Verdi rubbed his hands and chuckled. "Now look at this," he said. "Rubbish!" said the other, rolling a cigarette. The composer rose and embraced him with a burst of joy. "What do you mean?" asked the critic. "My dear friend," cried Verdi, "I have been making a popular opera. In it I resolved to please everybody except the purists, the great judges, the classicists like you. Had I pleased you I should have pleased no one else. What you say assures me of success. In three months 'Il Trovatore' will be sung and roared and whistled and barrel organed all over Italy." And so it proved.

Keeping Track of Ships.

In the course of a year more than a dozen ponderous books are filled at Lloyd's with nothing but the names of ships, their captains and the dates on which they touch and leave port. Every known vessel in the world of more than 100 tons register has its record in them, and the underwriters can easily turn to the name of any British or foreign ship and,tell approximately where she is at the moment.—London Tit-Bits.

THE KIANGS OF INDIA.

These Wild Horses Are Vicious and Said to Be Untamable.

Writing of the kiangs, or wild horses, of India, found near the land of Tibet, Thomas W. Weber in "The Forests of Upper India and Their Inhabitants" says:

Here for the first time we saw the kiang, or wild horse. Several herds came to look at us as we marched and galloped around, neighing and kicking up, but kept at a respectful distance. They have big, ugly heads and tails and ears like a mule's and a black stripe down the back; color, light bay, with white noses. They have fine free action in trot and gallop and are fourteen to fifteen hands high, strong in the legs and heavy in the body. We were welcomed by the neighing of numerous wild horses to the land of the kiang. Several herds kept circling round, the old stallions approaching in a quite threatening manner, snorting, squealing and kicking up their heels, while the mares and foals galloped off at a more respectful distance. There was a herd of kiangs which careered about our camp in a most objectionable way, making the most fearful disturbances. We witnessed a battle royal between two stallions, which for ferocity and wicked fury surpassed any fight I have seen. Again and again the pair went at one another like tigers, biting and kicking and mauling, the blood flowing freely, while the fearful yells and roars they kept up were terrifying to hear. This went on for hours. The horrible roars and shriekings made by the wild horse when fighting sound something like a noise between a donkey's bray and the squealing of a jackal, but far more ear piercing and discordant. Here the kiang is found in considerable numbers. He is, according to the Hunia accounts, untamable. There was a young one purchased at Bagesar fair from some Hunias for a small price. The purchaser thought he had a good bargain and proposed to send the animal to England, but when his men went to bring away the purchase no power could induce it to leave its foster mother, an old Arbet pony, which the clever Hunias refused to sell except for an exorbitant sum.

Ancient Proofreading.

The editions of books printed 200 or 300 years ago are almost entirely free from typographical errors, which may be attributed to the fact that early publishers were generally eminent scholars, and themselves gave much attention to the revision of their proofs. After reading the proofs they frequently turned them over to other scholars with the request to revise and correct, and as the printer's time was then deemed a matter of small consequence a perfection was attained which is seldom equaled by modern printers.

Two Courses Open.

Bonaventure de Fourcroy, a clever society poet of the seventeenth century, a splendid orator, an eminent advocate and an intimate friend of Moliere to boot, on being asked one day by a magistrate what he meant to do with his son replied. DR. A. W. CHASE NERVE PILLS

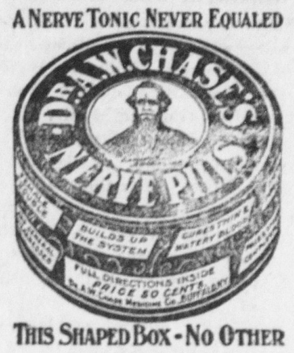
Give to Every Man the Power to Think, to Work, to Act and to do his Duty as a Man by Supplying to the System an Aundance of the Two Great Essentials of Life—Good, Rich Blood and Nerve Force.

A NERVE TONIC NEVER EQUALED



THIS SHAPED BOX - NO OTHER

The man who hesitates, whose eye is dull, whose step is slow, whose mind is sluggish, whose hands tremble is not the man whom an employer seeks. It is the bright man, the man with the clear eye and brain, the active man, full of energy, life and vigor, whose very manner and presence breeds success that is sought for and snapped up as soon as seen, and it seems almost pitiful that the first class, victims of excess of some sort should exist when it needs but a thorough course of the Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills to round them into the old time feeling of physical, intellectual and manly vigor again.

Mr. Robert Dildine of No 3 Ulster St., Waverly, N. Y. says: Some time ago I got a box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and when I say they have done me good, I can back up that statement by an increase in weight from 128 to 144 pounds in thirty days. When I began to take the medicine I was all run down and it is a wonder I kept at work at all—could not sleep—appetite poor and when at work if I stooped over to pick up anything, I would be so dizzy that for a few moments I could scarcely realize anything and frequently I had attacks of severe pain in the region of my heart. This condition had lasted for a long time and nothing I took ever gave more than temporary relief until I used the Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills They proved to be the true Nerve Force builder and it is as a result of their use alone that I today feel as well and sound as ever—no trouble of any kind but hearty, strong and vigorous in every way.

WILLIAMSPORT.

Martin Weasner of 1017 Franklin St., Williamsport, Pa., says:- "During the past five or six years I have been subject to nervousness and palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath I did not rest well at night and any unusual exertion would upset me. I was advised to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and got some and they proved to be just what I wanted. The medicine quieted and regulated the action of the heart made the nerves steady and strong the breathing easy and gave me general feeling of energy and vigor. As a result I have no hesitancy in recommending it to others." For Further information call at Krumrine's Drug Store

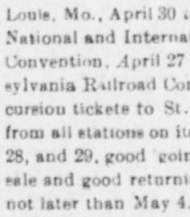
Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.



Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

MILES ON PHILIPPINES

Lieutenant General's Report Made Public by War Department.

MANY CASES OF CRUELTY CITED

During Visit to Islands He Heard Many Complaints Against Soldiers, Who, It is Said, Buried, Shot and Whipped Natives to Death.

Washington, April 27.—The War department made public the portion of the report of General Miles which refers to misconduct of officers and soldiers in the Philippines. The statements made by General Miles are the result of his tour of inspection in the Philippines last autumn and winter.

General Miles says that in going from Calamba to Batangas in November last he noticed that the country appeared devastated and that the people were very much depressed. Stopping at Lipa, he says, a party of citizens, headed by the acting presidente, met him and stated that they desired to make complaint of harsh treatment of the people of that community, saying they had been concentrated in towns and had suffered great indignities; "that 15 of their people had been tortured by what is known as the water torture, and that one man, a highly respected citizen, aged 65 years, named Vincente Luna, while suffering from the effects of the torture and unconscious, was dragged into his house, which had been set on fire, and was burned to death. They stated that these atrocities were committed by a company of scouts under command of Lieutenant Hennessy, and that their people had been crowded into towns, 600 being confined in one building."

A doctor of the party said he was ready to testify that some of the 600 died from suffocation. General Miles says he looked at the building, which was one story in height, 18 or 20 feet wide and possibly 60 or 70 feet long. He asked for a written statement to be forwarded him at Manila, but says he never received it, and adds: "I have no reason to disbelieve their statements; in fact, the instances of torture in the case of the man Luna having been tortured and burned to death are confirmed by other reports."

General Miles then refers to other cases, saying that on the Island of Cebu it was reported and published in November, 1902, "that two officers, Captain Samuels, 44th Infantry, United States Volunteers, and Lieutenant Feeter, 19th Infantry, had committed similar atrocities against the people of that island. It is also reported that at Laoag, on the Island of Luzon, two natives were whipped to death.

At Tacloban, Leyte, it was reported that Major Glenn ordered Lieutenant Caulfield, Philippine scouts, to take eight prisoners out into the country, and that if they did not guide him to the camp of the insurgent Quison he was not to bring them back. It was stated that the men were taken out and that they either did not or could not do as directed, and were put to death.

"At Calbayog, Samar, it was reported that several men in that district had been subjected to water torture. I saw three men who had been subjected to this treatment. Two of the men, named Jose Borja and Padre Jose Diaznes, the latter said he was one of three priests who had been subjected to torture by the troops under command of Lieutenant Gaujot, 10th Cavalry; that his front teeth had been knocked out, which was apparent; that he was otherwise maltreated and robbed of $300. It was stated that these priests were taken out to be killed, and were only saved by the prompt action of Major Carrington, First Infantry, who sent out for them. Lieutenant Caujot was tried, found guilty and was given the trivial sentence of three months' suspension from command, forfeiting $50 per month for the same period. His pleading guilty prevented all the facts and circumstances being developed.

"It appears that Major Glenn, Lieutenant Conger and a party of assistants and native scouts were moved from place to place for the purpose of extorting statements by means of torture, and it became so notorious that this party was called 'Glenn's brigade.' Whether it was possible for officers to be engaged in such acts without the personal knowledge of the general upon whose staff they were serving at the time, namely, Brigadier General Hughes, I leave for others to conjecture.

"These facts came to my notice in a casual way, and many others of similar character have been reported in different parts of the archipelago. In fact, I was informed that it was common talk at the places where officers congregated that such transactions had been carried on either with the connivance or approval of certain commanding officers."

General Miles says the law was also violated in handling and buying large quantities of rice which was sold at a profit. The people who were in the reconcentration camps were considered prisoners of war, but were compelled to buy food from those who held them at a large profit. General Miles characterizes this as unprecedented. He speaks of the magnitude of the transaction, which involved 21,000,000 pounds of rice and other supplies at a cost of $306,320. He says that "an extraordinary feature of this transaction" is that the action was disapproved by a division commander who assumed command, and who turned the matter over to the civil authorities, and that it has been carried on under an act of the Philippine commission.

VANDERBILTS IN PARIS

William K. and Mrs. Rutherford Were Quietly Married in Paris.

Paris, April 27.—Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who were quietly married in London on Saturday, have arrived in Paris. The bride, thickly veiled, entered her husband's automobile and the pair quickly sped away to Mr. Vanderbilt's country residence near Poissy. The arrangements by which the wedding was kept secret were most elaborate, and they were not relaxed even at the last moment. The wedding party entered St. Mark's church in London through the vicarage and departed from the rear entrance.

While the wedding ceremony was going on there lay in the vicarage the dead child of the vicar of St. Mark's, who made Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Rutherford man and wife. At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony the coffin was brought into the church and the Rev. R. H. Hadden read the burial ceremony over his child. Immediately afterward he left for Liverpool, where his father is dying.

TO APPEAL TO EMPEROR WILLIAM

Mormon Missionaries Will Ask Permission to Remain In Germany.

Berlin, April 27.—Hugh J. Cannon, the Mormon missionary, intends to appeal to Emperor William for permission for the Mormons to remain in Germany, hoping that his majesty's policy of religious tolerance may include the Mormons. In his petition Mr. Cannon sets forth the morality of Mormon doctrines and refers to the inability of his adversaries to cite any example where Mormon teachings have been subversive of the laws of the state or of orderly citizenship; he declares also that by the command of the supreme head of the church polygamy is not taught.

Mr. Cannon expects the United States to intervene in cases where missionaries have been maltreated, as, for instance, in the affair at Olsenbruck, Prussia, last January, when two missionaries were dragged through the streets of the town and imprisoned for three days. They were deported to Hanover, where they were again placed in jail and later sent on to Hamburg. Affidavits of these occurrences have been forwarded to Senators Kearns and Smoot, who, it is said here, have asked Secretary Hay to demand an apology from Germany in this matter on the ground that American citizens were treated brutally.

Among the converts to Mormonism made in Germany are several policemen who were sent to observe the missionary meetings.

Twenty-two Hundred Men Killed by British in Two Engagements.

Bohotle, Somaliland, East Africa, April 27.—Major Gough, in command of a mobile column, engaged the enemy near Danop. He lost 13 men killed, including two officers and four officers wounded. The enemy had 200 men killed.

About 2000 Killed.

London, April 27.—The despatch to the foreign office from Bohotle shows that Colonel Cobbe's relief by Brigadier General Manning and his retirement to Galadi was effected without opposition from the enemy. The loss of about 2000 of the Mullah's men occurred during the original attack on Captain Plunkett's square.

Mail Pouch Stolen.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 27.—A canvass mail pouch containing 24 registered packages has mysteriously disappeared from the Knoxville postoffice. The pouch had been turned over to Route Agent J. P. Boger, who runs from this city to Salisbury, N. C. Being called to the telephone, he dropped the pouch on the floor near a wire railing inside the postoffice. He was at the telephone only a minute, but when he returned the sack was gone. Two strange men were seen in the office a few minutes before the robbery occurred.

LAW MAKERS IN A RIOT

THE HALL COMPLETELY RUINED

Springfield, Ill., April 24.—Slugging and rolling over each other across the speaker's platform in a frenzied general fist fight at the feet of a score of female guests, the members of the Illinois legislature surpassed the wildest scenes of the Austrian reichsrath. Charges by the speaker of the house, John H. Miller, that attempts had been made to bribe him were formally made as an explanation of the extraordinary actions on his part, which precipitated the riot. The interior of the legislative chamber resembles in a measure the track of a tornado, so general was the wreckage of chairs and desks.

Chicago street railway franchises, more valuable than gold mines, were directly at stake, federal court receivership proceedings against the Union Traction Company of Chicago Wednesday having brought the matter to a sudden issue. The federal receivership was held by many to indicate an intention by the street railway company to fight out a claim to 99-year franchises, instead of negotiating with the Chicago city council for a renewal of franchises on a 20-year basis, with a municipal ownership option on the part of the city.

The stormiest time ever witnessed in the Illinois legislature began almost without warning, in a whirlwind of wild disorder, which arose yesterday in the house of representatives over rival traction measures, or so-called municipal ownership bills.

When the session reconvened last evening and Speaker Miller declared that the first amendment of the Lindley bill had passed by a viva voce vote, Representative Allen, who was one of a number standing on their desks, cried: "You are a liar."

There was now a fresh outbreak, members shouting: "Mr. Speaker," "Mr. Speaker," "Roll call," "roll call."

Above the din Mr. Sherman, as he seized his chair and placed it on his desk in front of him, could be heard shouting: "The speaker ignores the rules of the house. The chair is not in order."

The second amendment was then read. The uproar was deafening as the speaker started to put the question of adoption. The speaker declared the amendment adopted. Pandemonium prevailed. Many members had seized bill books and were pounding their desks, while Mr. Cummings, from his seat in the front row on the Democratic side, was vigorously wielding a board.

The third and fourth amendments were declared adopted. When the reading of the fifth amendment was completed personal violence against the speaker was threatened. A number of ladies were sitting on the couch near the speaker's desk.

"Will the ladies please move out from behind?" shouted Mr. Allen.

"Get them out," shouted Mr. Sherman. "Get the ladies out. Do not act the coward."

At this point a fight broke out on the Democratic side, a few feet from the speaker. Werdell (Dem.) and Glade (Rep.) were the central figures, but eight or ten other members appeared to be taking a hand in the melee in an evident endeavor to separate the two combatants. It developed afterwards that Werdell had started for the speaker with a menacing air, and that Glade had seized him, thus precipitating the encounter.

Above the din an indistinct motion for a recess was heard, and a moment later the speaker declared it carried, and another uproar ensued.

Chicago sentiment is said to favor the Mueller bill, and Mayor Harrison, Graeme Stewart, the recently defeated candidate for Chicago's mayoralty chair; John M. Harlan and others of influence have been here for several days working for it. The Lindley bill, the municipal ownership measure favored by an active minority, has, however, been forced ahead.

Three Years For Would-Be Lynchers.

Bluefield, W. Va., April 24.—Judge Woods, in the criminal court, sentenced O. L. Motley, Lige Hutchinson and Paul Banks, all colored, to three years each in the penitentiary for attempting to lynch Charles Godfrey, another negro, on the outskirts of Bluefield last February. The men had a grudge against Godfrey, and the three first mentioned, in company with another negro named Robert Brown, went to Godfrey's shack to lynch him. Godfrey fired on the party, killing Brown. He was tried and acquitted.

TYNER RETURNS PAPERS

Documents Abstracted From Postal Safe Submitted to Mr. Payne.

Washington, April 27.—The two important developments in the investigation of the sensational abstraction of papers from the safe of the office of the assistant attorney-general for the post-office department, which led to the dismissal of that official, were the submission of what purported to be the papers to the inspection of the postal officials and the decision of Postmaster-General Payne to immediately relieve Acting Assistant Attorney-General G. A. C. Christiancy from his office pending an investigation of his conduct. The action in the case of Mr. Christiancy was taken at his own request. He states that he courts the fullest investigation. Mr. Christiancy has held the office of assistant attorney-general since January 1, 1901, and has been in charge of the legal affairs of the department most of the time since then, owing to General Tyner's absence, caused by ill-health.

General Tyner's counsel submitted to Postmaster-General Payne and Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow papers which they said the Tyners claimed constituted all that had been taken away, but the statement made later by the postmaster-general, reciting the correspondence on the subject and the submission of the papers, specifically declines to accept the statement that the papers submitted necessarily constituted all that were abstracted.

SMALLPOX GERM DISCOVERED

Boston, April 27.—The Globe says that Dr. William Thomas Councilman, the Shattuck professor of pathological anatomy in the Harvard Medical School, has discovered the germ that causes smallpox. The discovery is pronounced by physicians who have been made aware of Dr. Councilman's achievements as one of the really great ones in medical history, and the most important made in Boston, rivalling the discovery of ether as an anaesthetic.

The details of the investigation, how each successive step was taken, together with valuable scientific information concerning the protoza, the organism that produces that highly contagious disease, will tomorrow evening be furnished to medical men by the discoverer, who refrains from making a public announcement of it until he has enlightened the scientific world. Tomorrow's meeting of physicians will be held at the Harvard Medical School, under the auspices of the Boston Society of Medical Science, and the notices merely state that Dr. Councilman will have an announcement to make upon "etiology of smallpox."

EXCITING BLAZE AT COLUMBUS

Fireman Instantly Killed By Falling Walls—Loss $600,000.

Columbus, O., April 27. — Fire destroyed the Brunson and Union Clothing Company buildings at High and Long streets, and several smaller structures, and damaged the Nicholas block, entailing an aggregate loss of about $600,000. Daniel Lewis, captain of engine company No. 11, was caught under a falling wall and instantly killed. His body was cremated in the ruins.

The fire started in the Brunson building and its progress was fanned by a brisk wind from the north. Smoke was first seen issuing from the basement under Bott Brothers' saloon. The fire smouldered for half an hour, and the firemen thought they had it under control, when the flames suddenly burst from an upper story. The flames, after clearing out the Brunson building, spread to the buildings south. The Union building was completely destroyed and the Courtright and Whatshire buildings were also destroyed.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUNDAY

Attends Church in Morning and Goes Riding in Afternoon.

Grand Island, Neb., April 27.—President Roosevelt's Sunday in Grand Island was quiet. The president attended St. Stephen's Episcopal church in the morning. The sermon was preached by the rector, Rev. Louis A. Arthur. In the afternoon the president went for a horseback ride, accompanied by Senator Dietrich. They rode out to Taylor's sheep ranch and then around to the Soldiers' Home, where the president greeted the veterans. The ride was about fifteen miles.

The day was extremely disagreeable on account of a high wind, which blew clouds of dust in every direction. In order that the president's party might be free from dust clouds while in the train, the fire department stretched a hose around the cars and kept the ground sprinkled.

The president made a short address this morning, and at 9.15 o'clock left for Hastings, Neb. He will reach Omaha at 5.05 o'clock this afternoon. He will spend the night in Omaha.

W. W. Heffelfinger, a Yale graduate, who was offered the place on the civil service commission made vacant by the retirement of Mr. Garfield, informed the president that he will be unable to accept the office.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Politeness is a good investment. It doesn't cost anything and generally yields good returns.

—Dr. Jas. A. Norris, the well known dentist of Philipsburg, died at his home in that place on Friday morning of lung trouble. He was aged 31 years

—Capt. Hugh S. Taylor has purchased the handsome pair of bay horses lately owned by F. W. Crider. Hereafter he need not take the dust of any team in this neck of woods.

—There is a rumor on the street to the effect that Major W. J. Singer is dead but after careful investigation we are unable to verify the report so believe it to be without foundation.

—One hundred Odd Fellows accompanied by the Zion band departed for Milton Tuesday morning over the Central Railroad to attend the state convention of Odd Fellows at that place.

—Harry Stover, formerly of this place, but now of Altoona, and who is firing on the Pittsburg division was burned about the face and nose at Pitcairn Saturday morning. He was taken to the hospital in Altoona to have his wounds dressed.

—At 9 o'clock Sunday morning Mr. Albert Pringle died at the residence of Mrs. —— Ritz, at Altoona, of meningitis. He was aged about 40 years and had resided there for some months. He has a brother who is a resident of Port Matilda.

—Word has reached here of the death of Howard Ray at Westfield, Tioga county, Thursday night of pneumonia. He was aged 38 years and was married to Miss Mary Waddle a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waddle, formerly of this place but now of Lock Haven. The funeral will take place at Lock Haven Tuesday afternoon.

—Miss Martha McEntire has resigned her position in Zellers drug store and will take up the study of stenography. Her many friends join in the wish that she may find her new vocation both pleasant and profitable.

—Dr. John Kelchline departed Thursday morning for his new field of work as a medical missionary in Egypt. He will sail from New York on the Celtic on the 29th and will spend some time in London studying hospital methods. He will probably be located at Cairo.

—John and George Knisely have started a Billiard and Pool room in Reynolds Bank building next to Irvins stationery store. They have installed two each, of Billiard and Pool tables of the latest manufacture and from the character of the proprietors we are assured the business will be conducted in a first class manner.

—Tuesday night three hungry barristers made a raid on the good things Mrs. Johnston had prepared for her guests, and not being accustomed to partake of such dainties, filled themselves just as they do with the rough stuff they get at home. The result was, they had bad dreams, and some of the ladies did not get more than they should.

—Post No. 2 G. A. R., unveiled a handsome portrait of Ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin on Friday night at their Post Room in Philadelphia. The memory of our illustrious citizen is honored in a practical manner all over the State, everywhere, except Bellefonte, which was his home. "Verily a Prophet is not without honor, save in his own country".

—Mrs. Lambert, wife of Scott Lambert, met with quite a serious accident Friday evening. They live on the Beaver farm near town, and Mrs. Lambert had occasion to go to the second floor of the barn for something, when suddenly the floor gave way, and Mrs. Lambert fell through to the floor beneath breaking a bone in her ankle and causing the broken bone to protrude from the flesh some distance. She was taken to the Bellefonte hospital for treatment.

—Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes, has resigned as organist of the Presbyterian church, much to the regret of the members of that congregation. Mrs. Hayes is not only a natural born musician, but in addition, received a thorough education at the Boston conservatory of music. Her place will be taken by Fred Weaver the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Weaver. Fred is a musical prodigy, and notwithstanding his extreme youth, manipulates the big organ like an old master.

—R. A. Beck is always up-to-date in introducing any improvements in his line of business. He has just had installed a new device which supplies a long felt want. It is called the Barbers Automatic Compressed Air Spraying apparatus, and is intended to spray witch-hazel or bay rum on the face after shaving, also to dry the face without the use of towels after shampooing it will dry the hair perfectly in very little time. It is a novel invention, and Mr. Beck deserves thanks for taking advantage of everything to make it more pleasant for his patrons. Schad & Bro. furnished the apparatus

—Senator Hanna will be temporary chairman of the Ohio republican convention, which will be held at Columbus June 3 and 4.

—The Masons are making a beauty spot of the large grounds back of their Temple, they will lay out a tennis court and the rest will be devoted to flower beds and lawn.

—Reports to the state department say, in effect, that Le Conte lost the presidency of Hayti because of a deal by which Germany was virtually to have a coaling station on the island.

—Significant information has reached the state department to the effect that Brazil is no longer contenting herself with a protest against the establishment of a foreign syndicate on the headwaters of the Amazon.

—Master Ogden Malin entertained a little party of friends at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Malin on East Howard street Friday evening. It was in honor of his eleventh birthday. It proved a pleasant evening to the young people. Games were played and light refreshments were served during the evening.

—We have so far forgotten to mention an important event which transpired in the family of W. Gross Mingle. It was the birth of a bouncing baby boy which occurred one day recently. The parents are not only delighted but it is said that there are visible signs of gratification on the faces of the grand-parents over at Central Hall.

Russell, Mrs. Edwin Irwin.

—Trout fishing season being here, those who have a tendency to angle for the speckled beauties will have to be careful if they wish to keep out of difficulty. The law prescribes the size of the finny tribe that shall be taken from the streams and if wardens and constables should be over zealous in the performance of their duties it may be that a foot rule will become a necessary article in the fisherman's outfit. Surely a foot rule will be sufficiently lengthy.

—Emporium has a rara avis in the way of a new mayor who advances the idea that the newspapers should be paid for publishing council proceedings and other similar matter of interest to the public. The deluded mortal actually thinks printers should be paid, yes, really paid, good hard money for such matter. He ought to come to Bellefonte and get his eyes opened. He would find here that the zealous custodians of the boro's weal keep armed watch over the strong box, lest printers break through and steal. That they expect printers to do the boro's legal printing for most any old thing they can get, holding out the tempting morsel of patronage like a bit of meat to a pack of famishing dogs, and the hungriest jumps the highest and gets it, at less than half what the price should be, and is in other places. It will be a cold day when dealers in any commodity but printers ink are found shaving their prices a half or two thirds for the boro, and the only reasonable excuse for a printer doing so is scarcity of work or "filling" for his columns.

Reeder a member of the Committee to build Continental Hall at Washington which is to cost about $250,000. Friday Mrs. Reeder received word that she has been selected as a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

—Rev. John Grimes, who shot himself in the head at Juniata during the session of the Methodist conference last month, was discharged from the hospital a few days ago. He was placed on the supernumerary list by the conference, which means that for the present at least he will not be given a regular charge.

—If plans do not miscarry the dedication services of the new capitol will be similar to the program carried out in the dedication of the old building some ninety years ago. He may be rated high by the commercial agencies; he may carry the plate round on Sundays; he may be a member of all the societies for preventing people doing things they want to do, and compelling them to do things they don't want to do. But if his sidewalk is not safe to walk upon in the spring of the year he is neither a good citizen nor a good Christain.—Ex.

The Accident Was Most Pathetic.

In an account of the fatal accident which befell James Wensel, the young Renovo freight brakeman at Dahoga, early Saturday morning, the News says the young man attempted to cross over the cars. He was on the engine, which his father was running, and upon reaching the first car he lost his balance and fell beneath the wheels. When the body struck the rails the wheels ground it horribly and death was instantaneous. When he fell his lantern went to one side of the train, whereupon one of the train hands went to investigate. It was found that the young brakeman was missing and the train was stopped as quickly as possible. When the train was stopped all the crew went back to see what had happened to the young fellow and were almost dazed to find him lying in pieces along the tracks. This was an especially trying moment for the father, who was almost frantic with grief and the scene was a pathetic one.

A Business Change.

John Anderson has disposed of his Restaurant and Pool Room, to Jesse Cox. For many years Mr. Anderson has conducted the popular establishment, but on account of failing health, has been compelled to retire from business. We are sorry to lose John from down town, and we assure him he will be missed, and we hope that with the relief of business cares, he may regain perfect health. The new proprietor is a man of push, and we have no doubt will keep up the reputation that has been established. Jesse knows how to conduct most any kind of business, and will, we know, make this a success.
